

NEW EASTERN RAIL MERGER APPROVED BY THE I. C. C.

Merger Would Be Consolidated Into Four Systems by Plan, Which Is Modification of One Announced in 1929.

ABASH-SEABOARD UNION ELIMINATED

Independent Unit With Short Lines to Be Built Around Delaware & Hudson Decision Is Victory For Lorie Interests.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved plans of the four major Eastern trunk-line railroads for consolidation of all roads of the Delaware and Hudson of the Ohio River and the Carolina State line, with the modification.

The four-system plan, presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission on Oct. 1, 1929, grouped all roads under Baltimore & Ohio, the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railway. The commission modified its consolidation plan of 1929 by eliminating the Delaware and Hudson as an independent unit, and allocating the entire property of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Pennsylvania and New York Central Railway, and the Baltimore & Ohio to the four-system plan.

The commission decision shifts the New England gateway lines from a source of considerable opposition on the part of New England interests including the New York, Ontario & Western, which is a link between New York, on Lake Ontario, Boston in connection with the New Haven system, was left by the Delaware and Hudson decision. The Lehigh & Hudson River, which originally was allocated to one of the New England systems, was changed to the Baltimore & Ohio.

The Delaware and Hudson was made independent. The New York, Ontario & Western, which is a link between New York, on Lake Ontario, Boston in connection with the New Haven system, was left by the Delaware and Hudson decision. Measure Increases R. F. C. Capital by $1,800,000,000, Extends $300,000,000 Credit to States to Relieve Distress.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 20.—President Hoover today signed into law the $2,122,000,000 unemployment relief bill described by him as "a strong step toward recovery."
The major items of the bill include:
Increase of the capital of the Reconstruction Corporation by $1,800,000,000. The corporation received $2,000,000,000 under the law creating it.
A fund of $300,000,000 for loans to states to relieve distress.
A $222,000,000 construction fund.
The announcement of the signing of the measure was not accompanied by any word whether the president had selected the two directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation who will replace Eugene Meyer, chairman of the corporation's board, and Paul Bestor, Farm Loan Commissioner, a director.
Administration of the $300,000,000 emergency unemployment relief fund provided by Congress was discussed today with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation board by Chairman Couzens of the

BONUS SEEKERS ARE ORDERED OUT OF U. S. BUILDINGS

Treasury Department Edict Directs Veterans to Evacuate Structures on Pennsylvania Avenue.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Treasury Department today issued orders for the evacuation of all Government buildings along Pennsylvania avenue, now occupied by members of the bonus army.
The order also instructed the police to clear out adjoining vacant lots where the men have built crude shelters of various sorts.
Police went to the area and told the men to move out, giving them until Friday at midnight to complete the job. Some of the men left immediately for the big camp of the Anacostia River. Others planned to move more leisurely.
The District of Columbia commissioners also ordered the veterans to abandon their camps on all public park property by Aug. 4. The commissioners' order will deny the war veterans two weeks hence of all camp sites now in use except Camp Bartlett, which is not park property. All tents and rolling kitchens belonging to the District National Guard and tented under bond to the police for the veterans were ordered returned by noon of Aug. 1.
The Treasury order applies also to private buildings occupied without consent of the owners. Even where the owners have consented, the buildings may not be occupied unless they are in proper sanitary condition.
At the Veterans' Administration members of the bonus army continued to seek transportation home. At 9 o'clock this morning railroad tickets or oil and gasoline had been furnished to slightly more than 400 persons.
Roy W. Robertson, leader of the California contingent, indicated today he would lead his men out of Washington within the next 48 hours.
He said he did not intend to take advantage of the transportation offered through the veterans' administration, but "would leave the way we came on freight trains."

Superintendent of Police Glasgow yesterday addressed a letter to Walter W. Waters, commander-in-chief of the main group of the bonus army, asking for his help in urging the veterans to leave Washington.

The Police Chief pointed out that under the $2,122,000,000 relief bill needy veterans could receive aid in their home states, whereas the law previously did not include participation by the District of Columbia in the relief loans.
"I hope you will weigh this matter," Glasgow said, "with the same vigorous forethought that you have used in the past and help us follow the course demanded by public opinion and public sentiment in this city, namely, the return of all World War veterans to the states from which they came."

CITY ORDERS DRAFT OF ITS POSITION ON OFFER OF P. S. CO.

Joint Committee Directs Counselor to Analyze Suggestion and to Determine Maximum Price.

TEXT OF PROPOSAL IS MADE PUBLIC

No Inclination at Meeting to Accept Figures Tentatively Given in the Company's Plan.

The city today took steps toward a definite proposal to the Public Service Co. for acquisition of street car and bus properties to be incorporated in a unified city-owned transit system.
The joint Transportation Committee at a meeting at city hall instructed City Counselor Muench, with the co-operation of Associate City Counselor Forrest G. Ferris Jr. and Arthur C. Meyers, Assistant Comptroller, to analyze the suggestion submitted a month ago by the company for sale of its property to the city and to draft a memorandum of the city's position, including statement of the maximum price the city could afford to pay for such transit properties as might be useful in a modern, unified system.

At the same time Alderman Edward W. Wiehe, chairman of the joint Transportation Committee, made public the text of the company's proposal, the important features of which were told exclusively in the Post-Dispatch July 5.
Plan of the Company.
The company's plan, which was only a tentative suggestion by a committee representing it and not a definite proposal, provided an annual annuity of $2,107,000 to be paid to the company by the city out of earnings of the transit system for 30 years. In the discussion, representatives of the company calculated this would compensate the owners on a basis of about $43,000,000 value for the property, plus interest.
In 30 years the city would pay $92,210,000, which with ordinary interest at 5 per cent would in 30 years amount to a capital debt of nearly $50,000,000.

The suggestion of the company committee was summed up as follows:
"Legal title to the transportation facilities now owned by the Public Service Co. and the Peoples Motor-Service Co. to be transferred to the City of St. Louis free and clear of all incumbrances (except current mortgage claims), but subject to a mortgage not to be assumed by the city, securing the transfer of the property to be operated under the name of the company, the right to receive and retain out of earnings of the transportation properties a fixed amount semi-annually for a period of years stated, and to take back such legal title in the event of failure to receive such fixed semi-annual sum."
The contract ordinance, among other things, to provide for the right of the transferee to retain a given proportion of the earnings remaining after deduction of the fixed semi-annual sum, such right also to be secured by the mortgage. The contract ordinance to be passed by the Board of Aldermen to provide the terms upon which the property is to be operated under the ownership and jurisdiction of the city; the amount, application and priority of earnings, and such other terms as are necessary."

First Claim on $2,107,000.
This suggestion, if adopted, would give the company first claim on the first $2,107,000 of transportation earnings annually for 30 years, but the company would have no further obligations for taxes and the city would have to provide for depreciation out of such residue of earnings, if any, as might accrue.

The plan, as explained by a table accompanying the memorandum, also would provide for the trustees of the five-year average including 1931, giving equal weight to the year 1931 with the average for the five years.
After deducting the fixed annuity of $2,107,000 to the company there would remain $5,512,189. It was calculated, however, that earnings the city could make by elimination of competition and reduction of operating expenses and injury and damage claims would increase the residue to $5,512,189 annually, which it was suggested

TOLL COLLECTING TIES UP TRAFFIC ON FREE BRIDGE

Delayed Motorists Attempt to Form Four Lines on Three-Lane Roadway as New Tax Takes Effect.

RECEIPTS $1014 IN EIGHT HOURS

Comptroller Nolte Promises to Make Arrangements for Speedier Service Hereafter.

Traffic was jammed on the Municipal Bridge during the morning rush hours today, when for the first time since the vehicle deck was opened in 1917 tolls were collected from motorists.
The toll charges were established in an ordinance approved last week and will remain in effect for one year. City officials expect to obtain nearly $1,000,000 in this manner for unemployment relief.
Collections for the first eight hours totaled $1014. In that period 889 vehicles, 2801 of them trucks, crossed the bridge. West-bound traffic numbered 4494 vehicles, and eastbound, 4375.
Although the roadway is wide enough to accommodate only three lanes of traffic, impatient motorists formed a double lane traveling in each direction, until they came to the center span where collectors took 10 cents from the driver of each private vehicle and 15 cents from truck drivers.
The four lanes of traffic met in the middle of the bridge and there a squad of police worked to untangle them. Three lanes were halted while a few cars from the fourth were allowed to proceed, then this stream was checked and another line of cars began to move.

38 Cents Estimated Cost.
The result was that most cars required a half hour to cross the bridge and one collecting motorist, a cost him 16 cents—10 cents for the toll, 15 cents for a gallon of gasoline, and 10 cents for wear and tear on his car, as he traveled mostly in low gear, and only a few feet at a time.

Despite the traffic snarl on the Municipal Bridge, toll collectors on Eads Bridge estimated the increase in traffic there at not more than 50 cars for the morning. The Eads Bridge is operated by the Terminal Railroad Association and tolls ranging from 35 cents to 55 cents are charged.
Comptroller Nolte, whose office has charge of toll collections, on the Municipal Bridge, went there at 8:30 a. m. to supervise the work. The toll charges became effective at 9 o'clock.

Nolte returned to the City Hall about 8:30 o'clock and reported that by that time things were working more smoothly, although he considered changes in the procedure would be necessary to expedite traffic.
Big Bills Cause Delay.
"It almost convinced me there is no depression," Nolte said, "ever saw so many $5, $10 and $20 bills. I don't know whether or not it was deliberate, but it served to slow things down."
Another cause of delay, he said, was that some drivers demanded receipts. Most of these were truck drivers who expected to be reimbursed by their employers, but there were some requests by operators of private cars. The collectors scribbled receipts on scraps of paper, but no more receipts will be issued after today.

Some of those using the bridge said they did not have a dime to pay the toll, and for one of these, who had a plausible story, Nolte dug into his own pocket to pay the charge.
Car in Passenger Car.
The Comptroller was called on also to solve a knotty problem when an Illinois farmer drove across the bridge in a passenger sedan which carried a calf. The collectors refused the problem to him. Was it to be 10 cents for a private vehicle, or 15 cents for a commercial one? Nolte decided that since it was a passenger car and the calf was only a baby calf, 10 cents would be enough.

There were two collectors to handle the traffic in each direction and two men who counted the number of vehicles to check their figures against the receipts.
Nolte decided it would be necessary to add more men to the collection staff and have men go down the line selling tickets so that collectors would not have to go to the trouble of making change. Books of tickets, he thought, could be sold and should prove attractive to persons who use the bridge regularly and to companies whose trucks cross it frequently.

He was confident that a system of toll collections which would not unduly hamper traffic could be worked out.

CHICAGO LABOR LEADER AND BODYGUARD SLAIN

Shot to Death as They Step Out Door of Roadhouse in Wisconsin.

By the Associated Press.
SHAWANO, Wis., July 21.—Gangland tactics were employed in Northern Wisconsin today to dispose of a Chicago labor leader and his bodyguard, both said to be members of a faction fighting the gang of which George "Red" Barker, recently slain, was the head. The men were killed by assailants armed with sawed off shot guns and a machine gun as they stepped out of the back door of a roadhouse near here about 1 a. m. They were Patrick Berrell, alias Pat Mann, vice president of the International Teamsters' Union, and William Marx, his bodyguard.
Chicago police knew them both. Berrell in particular for his activity in the affairs of the turbulent Teamsters' Union. Berrell had been staying at the Shawano Inn for three weeks. District Attorney Louis Cateau said. He was joined Wednesday by Marx, who drove from Chicago with his brother-in-law, Clarence Gleason, Gleason is in jail today, held as a material witness, along with a woman who was with him.
District Attorney Cateau said he believed a Chicago gang had shadowed Marx yesterday. Berrell's pockets contained $761. Marx had $148. Neither was armed, but Berrell had a clip of shells.

ALEXANDER STILLMAN, MOTHER ARE HURT IN PLANE CRASHES

Both "Recovering Nicely"; Parents Injured on Way to Son After Accident.

By the Associated Press.
GARY, Ind., July 21.—Both Alexander Stillman, 22-year-old member of the New York banking family, and his mother, Mrs. Fowler McCormick, are "recovering nicely" in Mercy Hospital from injuries suffered in airplane accidents in a few days.
Physicians who examined young Stillman said they detected a slight skull fracture, but Mrs. McCormick said she thought her son suffered the injury eight years ago when swimming.

Mrs. McCormick's injuries were confined to bruises and shock. Young Stillman, however, suffered severe lacerations of the face, including a long gash under the left eye. Both probably will return to the McCormick home in Chicago in a few days.
Stillman's plane crashed in a swamp near Gary airport early today. He had landed safely but went aloft again while a companion, George Sweeney of Boston, went to obtain a fuel supply.
Mr. and Mrs. McCormick learned of the accident, chartered a plane in Chicago and started for Gary. Their plane crashed near the Lansing, Ill., airport. McCormick and the pilot were unhurt.

PREMIER BENNETT MADE CHAIRMAN, OUTLINES STAND

Says Dominions Can Lower Barriers Among Selves or Raise Them Against Other Nations but Warns Against Isolation.

MESSAGE IS READ FROM KING GEORGE

Ruler Expresses Hope That Delegates Can Aid Entire World—Stanley Baldwin of England States Purpose of Sessions.

By the Associated Press.
OTTAWA, Ont., July 21.—A definite offer proposing wider preferences for British goods in exchange for greater British preferences to Canadian goods was made today by Premier R. B. Bennett of Canada. Immediately after he was chosen chairman of the Imperial Economic Conference, which opened today in the Parliament Building. Any such program of preferences would have considerable effect on the trade of the United States.
The Premier declared such a system of preference exchange should be enduring.
The purpose of the conference is to restore parity of trade agreements and by establishing an empire currency. The proceedings are being broadcast to Great Britain.
Bennett Chosen Chairman.
Wm. Bennett was chosen chairman of the conference immediately made his offer.
Representatives of the Dominions must decide now what course they intend to take and follow it without deviation, he said. His proposal was directed to the United Kingdom but the offer was extended also to all other parts of the empire wherever its application would be mutually advantageous.
"There are two ways of obtaining increased preference," he said, "either by lowering trade barriers among ourselves or by raising them against others. The choice is governed largely by local considerations, but subject to that, it seems to us that we should follow the first rather than the second course."
"However great our resources we cannot isolate ourselves from the rest of the world."
The Premier declared that "when we marshal the strength of the Empire, which is the sum total of its co-operating parts, we are invincible."
He pointed out that it was necessary for each unit of the Empire to do its utmost in the spirit of self-help.

"What Canada Has Done."
"In that belief," he continued, "Canada in the last two years has done as best she might to increase her power for self-service and for Empire service."
"Only the other day this Government concluded a treaty with our friends and neighbors, the United States of America, by which the St. Lawrence waterway and the Great Lakes will be made into a great seaway through which the commerce of the Empire will be carried to the heart of this continent, and through which the products of this country will go out to all parts of the Empire."

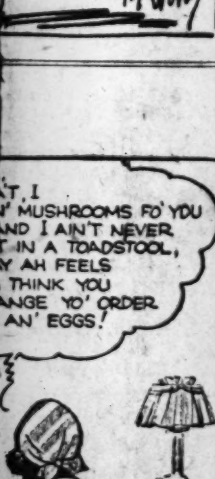

"This waterway will be free to all ships of the Commonwealth, and I believe will be the sure means by which the parts of the Empire will be brought still closer to one another."

Australia and New Zealand endorsed the Canadian proposal for reciprocal trade preferences, and the public session was adjourned. Private deliberations began late this afternoon.

One of the first acts of the conference was to approve a message of loyalty to the King. The delegates from the Irish Free State voted in favor of this action, and their vote was of particular interest because of the controversy between Dublin and London over President Eamon de Valera's attempt to abolish the oath of allegiance to the Crown.

P. S. CO. PERMITTED TO REMOVE TRACKS ON MARKET STREET

Extensive Changes in System Authorized by Missouri Board in Connection With Widening.

ADEQUATE BUS SERVICE ORDERED

Combining of Market and Laclede Lines Over New Route Provided—Other Plans Approved.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, July 21.—An extensive abandonment of street car tracks by the St. Louis Public Service Co. in connection with the widening of Market street from Seventh street to Vandeventer avenue, was authorized today by the Missouri Public Service Commission, conditional on the company's substitution of adequate motor bus service.

The commission also authorized combining of the Market and Laclede car lines and rerouting of several other lines in connection with the project.

The commission order authorizes abandonment of the following trackage:

On Vandeventer avenue between Chouteau avenue and Market street.

On Market between Vandeventer and Laclede avenues and on Market between Twenty-first and Fourth streets.

On Clark avenue between Market and Twenty-first streets.

On Twenty-first street from Clark avenue to Market.

On Chouteau avenue between Manchester avenue and Kingshighway.

Combining of Routes.

The order authorizes combining of the Market and Laclede car lines over a new route, which will be as follows:

Present Market street route from the west to Kingshighway and Chouteau avenue, north on Kingshighway and Euclid avenue to Laclede avenue, east on Laclede to Market, east on Market to Twenty-first, north on Twenty-first to Pine street and east on Pine to Broadway or Fourth street.

It also authorizes rerouting of the Southampton line so it will follow the present route from the west and south to Vandeventer and Chouteau avenues, east on Chouteau to Eighteenth street, north on Eighteenth to Pine street and east on Pine to Broadway or Fourth street.

The order stated it was understood the company might make certain minor changes, not enumerated in the order, in that part of the routes of the Compton, Bellefontaine, Eighteenth, Cherokee and Tower Grove lines in the downtown district of St. Louis, as may be required to improve service in the congested district, subject to the granting of legal authority for the changes in each instance.

The order is conditional on the instituting of motor bus service to be operated in both directions on Market street from Fourth street, or such other terminal as may be authorized by the St. Louis Board of Public Service, to Vandeventer avenue, over Vandeventer to Chouteau, and over Chouteau to Kingshighway.

Condition of Company.

The company had contended that if it were required to maintain operation of its tracks on Market, during the widening, and then to reconstruct its tracks, it would have to expend $48,000. In its present situation, the company contended this expenditure would seriously injure its financial condition.

It also contended that widening of the street would greatly increase traffic on Market and because of this increase in travel and the wider street, operation of street cars would create additional hardships for car riders and the traveling public in general.

"With the company in its present financial condition," the commission stated in its order, "possibly facing receivership should it be required to spend a sum of money as large as that indicated in this case for the purpose of maintaining street car service along Market street and with its commitment that it will substitute therefor with proper consent of the city, bus service, we believe the applicant should be permitted to make the changes in its service as requested."

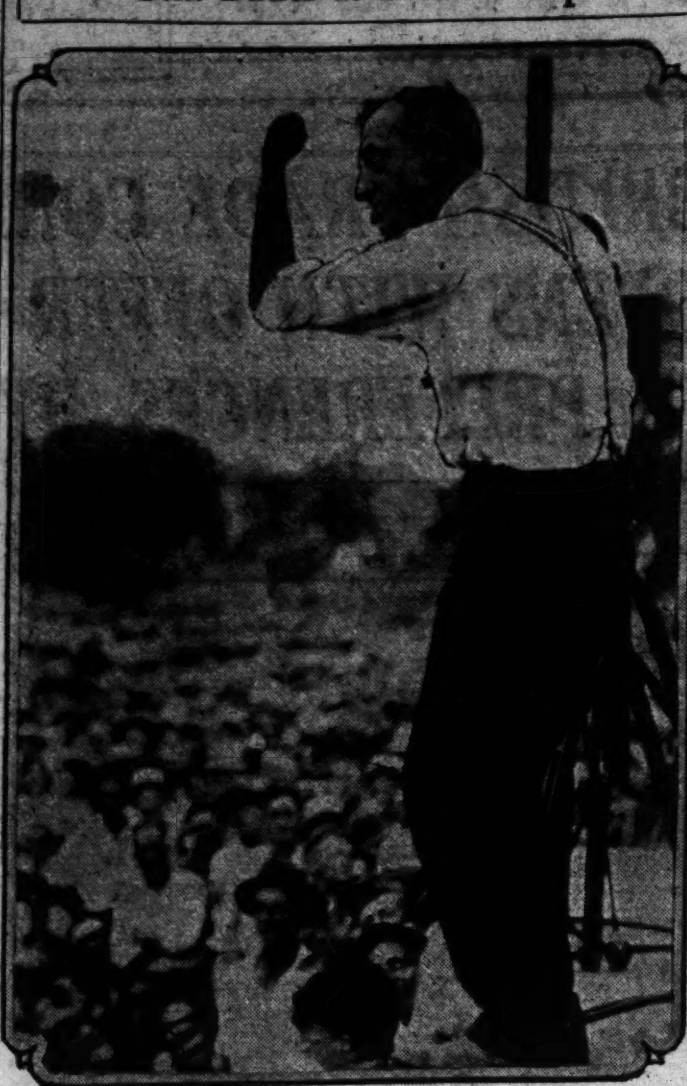

The commission said it thought that motor bus service would more adequately serve the city's needs on Market street after it is widened, than would street cars on tracks in the middle of the widened street.

The company was authorized to remove the tracks, poles and overhead wires after the street car service was discontinued and as soon as convenience may require in connection with the street widening.

BRITISH TRADE PARLEY OPENS WITH CANADIAN OFFER ON PREFERENCES

Governor-General, in opening the conference read the following message from the King:

"My thoughts and prayers are with the delegates of my Governments who are gathered in conference today to explore the means by which they may promote the prosperity of the peoples of this great empire."

"At this conference you are opening a new page of history on which, within a few weeks, will be written the record of a determined effort to solve the difficulties weighing so heavily not only upon us but upon the whole world."

"It is my earnest hope that when this conference is concluded there will be a record of results worthy of reflecting the frankness, the sincerity, and the spirit of helpfulness with which, I feel confident, your deliberations will be conducted."

"The British Empire is based on the principle of co-operation, and it is in now your common purpose to give the fullest possible effect to that principle in the economic sphere."

"By so doing you will set in motion beneficial forces within the British commonwealth which may well extend their impulse also to the world at large."

"I pray that you may give clear insight and strength of purpose for these ends."

Speech by Baldwin.

Stanley Baldwin, president of the Council in the British Cabinet and head of the delegation from the United Kingdom, spoke, outlining the general purposes of the gathering.

The real importance of the conference, said he, lies in the fact that it marks a point where two roads diverge, "one leading to the old world of purely national interests, the other to closer imperial unity and the recognition of advantages in mutual trade co-operation."

If at the end of the conference the delegates can say that they have taken the latter road, he said, "the actual distance covered is of minor importance, because progress will continue."

Great Britain has given the dominions the privilege of free entry into ports of the United Kingdom, and the Dominions have given preferences to Great Britain, said Baldwin, but the opportunities of mutual preference have by no means been exhausted. Empire trade is still only 20 per cent among the British Dominions and 70 per cent with foreign countries.

Trend to Larger Groups.

"The trend today," he said, "is toward larger units. International trade is no hampered by barriers of all kinds that strong opinion is developing in favor of groups, not necessarily political, but offering to members economic advantages in the mutual opening of markets."

"No one suggests that complete free trade within the empire is possible, but there can be no doubt that constant communication and more complete information about imperial markets requirements would, if properly focused, give the governments opportunities of making commercial arrangements with other groups of nations such as could hardly be reached if each government acted alone.

"The first aim of this conference therefore should be to clear out the channels of trade among ourselves. If we approach the problem with a view to seeing how much each can contribute to the common stock, we shall not need to concern ourselves with the relative advantages obtained by each."

During the last few days the delegates paved the way for preliminary advance to their objective. Canada moved to discard its less important industrial enterprises in the interest of British preference.

Many observers wondered, however, if that course was so essential to keep this conference from breaking up in expostulations as its predecessors have done. Canada has only 10,000,000 persons, it was recalled, to absorb its share of the output of Great Britain's 40,000,000 almost entirely industrially employed citizens.

Other dominions and crown colonies rose with assurances of willingness to give and take, but their populations, too, are in many cases small.

In the quarter ending March 31, 1930, shipments from the United Kingdom to India totaled $19,475,526, normally only little less than $100,000,000. At least partly due to the boycott, this total declined for the quarter ending March 31, 1932, to $14,491,924.

The Canadian Problem.

Little is heard about that at this conference where so much has been said of Canada's whitening down its $323,000,000 imports from the United States in the interest of Great Britain, which supplies only $169,000,000 of Canada's imports.

India might logically be expected to give the conference assurance of greater effort to absorb British goods, if no more than in return for British wealth invested in its development. Canada, on the other hand, has the advantage of almost $4,000,000,000 of American funds invested in its enterprises, compared with only $2,000,000,000 of British money. The United States took $287,000,000 worth of its exports last year, compared with only $171,000,000 worth taken by the United Kingdom.

A point overlooked thus far in regard to the suggestion that Canada lean more toward British markets is the fact that declining exchange has offset the effect of several American tariff schedules, notably that against feeder cattle. The tariff fight between Great Britain and the Irish Free State also promises to hold out to Canada the prospect of replacing Irish cattle on the British market.

Regardless of pessimism north of the International Line over the Hawley-Smoot tariff act, the decline in Canadian exchange made it possible for Canada to sell the United States practically the same number of feeder cattle in the first 11 months of 1930 as in the corresponding period in 1931.

The Canadian unit of exchange is now worth more relatively than that of any other empire nation. It might well be at par with the dollar but for the decline in the British pound and the necessity of guaranteeing Canadian schedules.

Buying American Dollars.

Ever since the pound fell Canadians have been buying American dollars with which to purchase British pounds for use in paying for imports from the United Kingdom. The impression here is that the United States is to blame for the decline in Canadian currency. However, the United States holds so much more of Canadian securities than the $700,000,000 held by Great Britain that if the Canadian dollar were pegged to the American the value of British-owned Canadian securities would be almost erased.

This conference is going to take up the question of inter-empire currency, probably with a view to establishing a common unit of value. If this happens, whatever mediation of exchange prevailed would be worth as much in Ottawa or Sydney as in London.

Adoption of bi-metalism has been suggested as one way to do this, but such a policy probably would again split the empire nations. While South Africa is presently gold-producing, Canada produces both gold and silver and India is already on a silver basis.

A feature of the export trade of Canada in June was an increase in the merchandise sold to the United States, according to a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The value was $15,751,485, as compared with $14,189,019 in May and $12,085,048 in April. With this increase the Canadian exports to the United States in June were greater than to all the countries of the British Empire combined.

M. C. STEINBERG CO. ORDERED TO FILE RECORD OF ASSETS

Financial Statement Must Be Made by Aug. 2 or Judge Faris Will Declare Firm Bankrupt.

An order directing Mark C. Steinberg & Co. to file a schedule of assets and liabilities in Federal Court on or before Aug. 2 was filed here today.

It was issued at Stone Lake, Wis., by Judge Faris, who directed that the brokerage firm be adjudged bankrupt in the event of its failure to meet the terms of the order. The order, dated Monday, carried a 15-day time limit.

Application for an order that the schedules be filed forthwith was entered by Edward W. Tobin, attorney for a group of petitioning creditors in the case, and was made to Judge Faris at Stone Lake, where he is on vacation.

At the same time, attorneys for the company explained by letter to Judge Faris that the work of preparing the schedules was a considerable task and asked a further extension of time.

An offer of settlement of creditors' claims on a percentage basis it to be made. The bankruptcy petition was filed an hour after the company had been placed in receivership in Circuit Court on petition of Mark C. Steinberg.

CITY "OFFICIALLY" TOO HOT, PROTESTS AND GETS ACTION

Charleston, W. Va., Complaint Causes Weather Bureau to Move Thermometer.

By the Associated Press. CINCINNATI, July 21.—Because residents of Charleston, W. Va., thought the high readings of the Government thermometer weren't slanting speaking, so hot, the instrument is to get another home, though still somewhere in Charleston.

So enthusiastically did the mercury skip to the 100-degree mark and above, each summer, that residents of the city insisted it couldn't be so. Moreover, it was reported at the meteorologist's office here, they thought the city was getting adverse publicity, a black eye and so on.

"The instrument is correct," it was said at the senior meteorologist's office here yesterday. "It's just a matter of improper exposure. The thermometer in its present location on the wharf probably is affected by radiation and so we have ordered the instrument stored in the office of the observer there until a better location can be found."

STATE INCOME TAX LAW UPHOLD

Jackson County Circuit Court Sustains Demurrer.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 21.—An attack on the constitutionality of the State income tax law by Langston Bacon, Kansas City, failed yesterday in Circuit Court when Judge Darius A. Brown sustained a demurrer to Bacon's suit against the Jackson County Collector.

Bacon contended the State income tax law amended in 1931 was unconstitutional because it divided individual incomes into several classes, was not uniform and did not bear equally on the various individual incomes subject to taxation under the act.

FOUR-SYSTEM PLAN OF RAIL MERGERS

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co., before any of its portion of the four-system plan can be put into effect must divest itself of all stock held by it directly in the New Haven system and indirectly through the Panhandle Corporation, the Pennsylvania Company or any similar organization in the New Haven and the Boston & Maine. It may place all such stock in the hands of independent trustees approved by the commission.

The Baltimore & Ohio is given trackage rights over the Pere Marquette into Detroit.

The Western Maryland, most of the stock of which is owned by the Baltimore & Ohio, but which the commission last year ordered trustees under the Clayton anti-trust act, is assigned to the Baltimore & Ohio.

CO. SEEKING HIGHER MINIMUM STREET CAR FARE

Applies to State to Sell Four Tokens for 35 Cents Abandoning 12-Ride Ticket for $1.

CHANGE WOULD GO IN EFFECT AUG. 1

Monday Pass System Would Be Continued and 35-Cent Week-End Charge Introduced.

The Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, July 21.—The St. Louis Public Service Co. today applied to the State Public Service Commission for permission to change its rates of fare Aug. 1.

The company wishes to abandon the sale of the present 12 weekly ride tickets, with 5 cents for extra rides within the week, and to substitute the sale of four tokens at 11-3/4 cents each, for 5 cents each, and the single cash fare to remain 10 cents, as at present.

The proposed change would make the lowest fare obtainable 1/2 cent a ride. For those using the present tickets, the rate for 11-3/4 cents for the first 12 rides, and additional rides at 5 cents each, and the average rate, for those taking many rides, to 7 cents or less.

The company proposes to sell 25-cent Sunday and holiday passes, and for one day's unlimited riding at 35 cents. It plans to add 11-cent week-end ticket, good Monday to 3 a. m. Monday. The fare for children 5 cents, 6 for 25, unchanged from the present rate. In its formal application, the company says that the commutation plan does not properly meet existing conditions in employment.

When the ticket plan was introduced nearly three years ago, the company said, most wage earners had 12 or more rides in a week. Many are unemployed or on overtime, and do not need so many rides. Those taking more than 10 rides in a week now have to pay 5 cents a ride. They will be reduced, the company says, by the new tokens, usable at any time, for 35 cents. The proposed new tokens will increase the fare bill of the daily worker from $1 to $1.05 a week, and will increase the bill of the three-day worker from 60 cents to 52 1/2 cents.

At Pt. Decline in Tickets.

The company stated that the use of the weekly tickets has declined 24 per cent as compared with 1924 years ago, and that about 20 per cent of the passengers now use tokens. In exhibits accompanying the application, the company argued that the new rate would result in a net loss of 1.4 per cent in its revenue if it carried no more passengers than last month. But it expressed the belief that an increase in the number of passengers would result, and that this would increase its revenues.

The application is for a three-month experimental period, which will extend to Nov. 1.

In a conference with the commission, before the filing of the application, the city was represented by F. G. Ferris Jr., Associate City Engineer, George Owens, engineer, appeared for the commission. The city's representatives did not express any opinion on the proposal, and the commission will write an expression from the city before acting on the proposal.

The company began the sale of the commutation tickets Aug. 1, 1925, the price then being 90 cents for 12 rides and six cents for each extra ride within the week. The fare was put into effect as an experiment. Records kept showed a considerable decline in the number of passengers, as compared with a year before, but only a slight decline in revenue.

Only two indictments were returned. They were two forged indictments against Mrs. Adele E. Mueller, a real estate dealer, growing out of an allegedly false deed of trust placed in the estate of her stepdaughter, for whom she was guardian. The Court was informed the indictments were returned this week in order to be within the time provided by the statute of limitations.

Obtains $500 Alimony and Restoration of Name.

Mrs. Clara Koeln, 2320 Halliday avenue, obtained a divorce today from Christian Koeln, an employee of the Standard Building Materials Co. She charged general indignities and desertion.

Circuit Judge Landwehr awarded her $500 alimony in gross and restoration of her former name of Koeln. She has two sons by her marriage. She testified that she and Koeln were married Nov. 18, 1920, and separated April 18, 1922. Koeln, who is former chief mechanic of the St. Louis Fire Department, was represented by an attorney but did not contest.

The committee representing the company was composed of Stanley Clarke, president of the company; James H. Grover, president of the St. Louis Union Trust Co.; Tom K. Smith, president of the Boatmen's National Bank; W. W. Smith, president of the First National Bank; and Arnold G. Stifel and Hugo Wurdack, investment brokers.

At today's meeting the committee discussed only a few of the provisions of the company's plan. It was agreed no progress could be made until a price was settled upon. The committee showed no inclination to accept the figures tentatively given in the company's plan. City Counselor Muench called attention to the extensive abandonment of street car tracks recently and said that in his opinion the city must establish a comprehensive city service almost overnight.

"We must take all these things into consideration in determining what the system is worth to us," he said.

The committee agreed unanimously that whatever plan is adopted must provide for compensation to the city, above and beyond interest and other claims, in lieu of taxes of nearly $1,500,000 annually now collected from the company. The company's plan made the city's compensation contingent on payment of the annuity to the company.

The joint transportation committee is carrying out instructions of an earlier aldermanic transportation committee which adopted the policy of public ownership of a city-wide transit system along lines that would not create any new debt against the city's general tax revenues.

The joint committee is composed of Aldermen Wiebe, Studt and Fischer and Mayor Miller, Commissioner Nolte and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen.

BOY, 10, PLEADS WITH PROSECUTOR TO FREE FATHER

Child Goes to Danville, Ill., Jail Voluntarily When Parent Is Held Under Dyer Act.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DANVILLE, Ill., July 20.—Federal authorities here have a problem on their hands, a problem with blue eyes and fair hair, with an engaging manner but all the persistence of a 10-year-old boy in a case of defense of his father.

Monday morning the problem, hitherto inoperative and blue shirt, knocked at the door of United States Attorney Paul Jones. "I'm Ernest Chaplin," he said. "Are you the District Attorney?"

Jones admitted he was, and the boy, blue eyes intense, went on. "You've got my father in jail for stealing an automobile. He didn't take it. He bought it. I know he did, and you'll know it before long."

District Attorney Jones replied that he was investigating, and asked the boy his purpose.

Says Father Won't Leave.

"I want you to let him out of jail," Ernest answered calmly. "He won't run away before it's settled. You'll see if you talk to him that he isn't the kind of man to run away. We'll stay right here in Danville until you tell us we can go."

The prosecutor asked questions, and the lad pursued his plea for 20 minutes with all the composure, Jones said today, of a trained advocate. The father, Samuel E. Chaplin, 36, was held for the grand jury on a Dyer Act complaint made by J. T. Oates, Franklin, Ky. Oates, another man and Chaplin, whose home was in Sanders, Ky., had been driving through Tennessee looking for work. Oates charged Chaplin with taking the automobile while Oates and the father were asleep, but Chaplin declares Oates wrecked the machine after a drinking bout and sold it to him for $25. Jones' investigation showed Chaplin had no criminal record.

"Where are you staying?" District Attorney Jones asked the boy.

"With my father, of course," Ernest replied.

Boy's Trip to Jail.

"At the jail?" Jones asked incredulously. The lad nodded. "The whole town has taken an interest in the boy. Nell Mann Shedd, the deputy clerk, offered to take him into her home until his father could care for him, but he declined."

"I'd rather be with my father," he stoutly declared, "than anyone else in the world."

Work has been found for him, selling newspapers on the streets, but no one has been able to shake his determination to stay at the jail as long as his father is there. Jailor Al Thornton provides his meals. Meantime, due to his incarceration, the District Attorney's office has redoubled its investigation, with the possibility that the boy may find his defense successful, at least to the extent of obtaining his father's release on bond.

WRITER'S SHIP RIDES OUT ARCTIC STORMS

Frank North, Unreported Since June 10, Arrives at Alaskan Port.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 21.—An amateur radio operator picked up a message from an Alaskan station last night directed to the Associated Press, reporting the safety of Frank North, writer and explorer, although his vessel had been severely damaged in storms north of the Alaskan peninsula.

The message, sent by an amateur at Ughashik, Alaska, was received here by Bruce Duncan.

It was said that North had left the Alaskan coast on June 15, and no word had been received from him until his vessel put into port at Ughashik, after much stormy weather.

A preliminary survey indicated the message said that the vessel had been so badly damaged it could not be repaired in time to return to the Arctic ice pack this season.

Before leaving Ughashik Island, North and his party had spent some time exploring Shishaldin volcano, and were the first to reach it after its severe eruption several months ago, the message added. Last month Father Bernard Hubbard, Santa Clara University professor, ascended the volcano.

North has written extensively on the Arctic and done much exploration in the Far North.

Two Upper Floors of National Iron Co. Swept by Flames of Undetermined Cause.

Fire early today swept the two upper floors of the National Iron Co., Eleventh street and Converse avenue, East St. Louis, causing a damage estimated by Fire Chief Ames at $5000 to the building and $5000 to its contents.

The fire originated from an undetermined cause in the second floor of the three-story building, which contained rags and iron. It was owned by Louis Rockman.

Parts of the roof still bore marks of a $47,000 fire which occurred there in 1914. The building and its contents are insured.

WEATHER COOLS OFF IN NORTH AFTER 38 DEATHS FROM HEAT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Temperatures subsided today throughout the Upper Mississippi basin after 38 more deaths had been credited to extreme summer heat.

Showers swept across the North, from the Rockies to the Great Lakes and on into the North Atlantic States. Relief was promised in the South by tomorrow.

Minnesota produced an official record for Wednesday with 102 degrees, but last night its citizens slept at 78 degrees. The Dakotas and Nebraska also cooled off considerably, while showers and breezes brought much-needed relief to Texas, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

The weather man promised temperatures "not so warm" today to most of Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas, while showers were predicted for the lower lake region.

New England weather was merely seasonal. Similar reports came from the Pacific Coast and the Western Mountain region.

WILSON PLURALITY IN JACKSON COUNTY TO EXCEED 50,000

With Estimates Running
Up to 75,000, Apparently
Only Revolt in Rest of State Can Beat Him.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 21.—Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City has made his preparations for the August primary in Jackson County with a determination to pile up such a tremendous majority for all Pendergast candidates that the Democratic party of the State will in the future be as submissive to him as is the Democratic party of Jackson County.

His power in Jackson County virtually is supreme. No local Democrat of influence has the courage to challenge it. Opposed in his effort to extend his power to include all State offices, executive, administrative and judicial, by State Senator Russell L. Dearmont, candidate against Francis M. Wilson, the Pendergast choice for the nomination for Governor, the boss will attempt to establish his State dictatorship by an overwhelming vote for Wilson.

A survey of primary campaign conditions in this county and the probable results of the carefully laid plans leads to the conclusion that, unless the Democratic voters in St. Louis and throughout rural Missouri become aroused to a point of State-wide rebellion, Pendergast is going to be successful.

Record Registration.
Never before has the number of registered voters for a primary in the county approached the registration for this primary. The organization has prepared for it as it would for a general election, and there is today registered for the primary approximately the total voting strength of the county, the registration being about half the population.

Although the work of checking over the lists for duplications has not been completed by the Board of Election Commissioners, the board is able to state with a fair degree of accuracy what the total will be. Its estimate is that the registration in Kansas City is 155,000 and in Jackson County outside the city, 25,000, making a total of 180,000 for the county.

Competent local authorities estimate that about 60 per cent of those registered are Democrats, which, if correct, would make the number eligible to vote in the Democratic primary, 108,000. These same authorities estimate that approximately 65 per cent of the registered vote will be cast in the primary election, which would make the total Democratic vote 70,200.

55,000 Additional Voters.
This is 35,000 more than the total Democratic vote in the 1928 primary. It is only 7000 less than the vote in the county for the Democratic candidate for President in 1928.

The figure of 55,000 may appear to be an exaggeration and yet it is lower than the vote which the Pendergast organization expects to get to the polls. One of the highest of the Pendergast lieutenants, a man who might be mistaken in his estimate but who wouldn't intentionally mislead the writer, said he believed that not less than 55,000 votes would be cast in Jackson County for the Democratic candidates Aug. 2.

So complete is the Pendergast power that the opinion commonly held here is that he controls 90 per cent of the Democratic vote of Jackson County.

While he has a candidate for every State office, Pendergast's chief concern is for the governorship. The Governor appoints the election commissioners of Kansas City, the members of the State Highway Commission and all the many other State commissions. The jobs go with the governorship, and a political organization must have jobs to maintain supremacy. The Pendergast organization's demand for jobs has outstripped the capacity of Kansas City and Jackson County to supply them and the State government offers the only opportunity for further exploitation.

60,000 Margin for Wilson Likely.
Pendergast will deliver his controlled vote to Charles M. Howell, his candidate for the nomination for United States Senator, and for the others he has selected for the other nominations, but not to the full extent that he will deliver them for Wilson.

It will not be surprising if returns from Jackson County show Dearmont with a total of less than 10,000. If the Pendergast lieutenant's estimate of a total vote of 55,000 is correct this would give Wilson's plurality of between 10,000 and 15,000. There are two other candidates in the race who might possibly get 2000 or 3000 votes in the county.

If the total vote should be 55,000, as some estimate, Wilson would have a plurality of between 60,000 and 75,000. There are men who express the opinion that Pendergast will be disappointed in the number of votes, and that it will not go above 55,000. In that case Wilson would be expected to get out of Jackson County with a plurality slightly in excess of 50,000.

One is not surprised at the power conceded Pendergast when he delves into the makeup of the Pendergast organization. There are approximately 5000 municipal and county jobs, virtually every one of which is held by a man or woman accountable to Pendergast. Two-thirds of the jobs are filled directly by the boss, though in these are included a minor number named for him by Casimir J. Welch, a lesser boss. The remaining one-third are filled by so-called faction leaders by Congressman Joseph B. Shannon.

Six Votes Per Job.
At times Shannon and Welch and their personal followers will oppose a candidate backed by Pendergast, as Welch supported Hay for the nomination for Senator four years ago, but this does not happen when the "big boss" has a real interest such as he has this year in Wilson and Howell.

Under the rules of the organization each job holder is held personally responsible for not less than six votes in a primary or general election. In practice most of them deliver many more than that and, of course, there are many hundreds, not job holders, who profit more or less from their connections with the boss, and who can be counted upon for thousands of additional votes.

In the primary election, according to undisputed authority, there will be 10,000 Pendergast workers at the polls in Jackson County, an average of nearly three to a polling place.

It is going to take a tremendous Dearmont vote in St. Louis and throughout the remainder of the State if this boss-controlled vote here does not decide the primary for the Pendergast candidates.

The general belief is that Howell will not get as heavy a vote here as will Wilson, and that Hay will get out of Jackson County with a somewhat smaller plurality against him than will Dearmont.

Pendergast has not the same interest in the Senatorship that he has in the Governorship. A sizeable part of the personal following of Senator Reed is favorable to Bennett Clark, including some of the strongest of the Pendergast men, and Hay in several campaigns has built up a personal following.

But violations of Pendergast orders will be few. In the local territory to which he has limited himself in the past his word is law and virtually none dares even protest.

Farmer Pays Bills; Ends Life.

By the Associated Press.
GRANT, Neb., July 21.—After paying some small bills, giving instructions for disposal of his livestock, and asking his brother to call an undertaker, Adam Kraft, 72-year-old farmer, south of here, shot and killed himself last night. He told friends of his intentions, but no one took him seriously, they said, because he had made similar threats several times before.

$600,000 SUIT IS WITHDRAWN
 By the Associated Press.
 SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—The $600,000 alienation of affection suit of Mrs. Gertrude McIntyre, wife of a San Francisco broker, against Mrs. Nellie L. Elliott, widow of a Chicago realty man, has been withdrawn. It has been announced by Mrs. McIntyre's attorney.
 The suit charged Mrs. Elliott with alienating the affections of William G. McIntyre. Mrs. Elliott had sought to have the case transferred to Los Angeles.

WINTER SUGGESTS BECKER PRACTICE HIS ECONOMY PLAN
 At St. Charles He Says Opponent Has 100 Payroll- 'Galavanting Around' State.

In a speech at St. Charles last night, Lieut. Gov. Edward H. Winter, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, challenged Secretary of State Charles U. Becker, one of his opponents, to begin practicing the Governmental economy he has been advocating.

"Economy should begin in political campaigns," Winter said, "and Mr. Becker should quit talking economy or get rid of 100 persons on the state payroll who are galavanting around the state in the interests of his candidacy."

Winter again asserted that Becker had refused to co-operate with Gov. Caulfield in the steps taken by the Governor for reducing state expenditures to conform to decreased tax revenues.
 Daniel Bartlett, a former St. Louis Police Commissioner, said in an address last night over KMOX that many St. Louis ward politicians are supporting Becker for Governor because they expect he would permit them to control appointments in St. Louis. Bartlett advocated the nomination of Winter, who, he asserted, was pledged to the appointment of efficient, honest men to the police and election boards in St. Louis, in order to maintain the police and election departments free of political influences. He recalled that two years ago certain St. Louis Republican politicians, among them William Sacks, now manager of Becker's campaign in St. Louis, protested to Gov. Caulfield that the party organization was not being consulted about his St. Louis appointments.

Sacks' Visit to Caulfield.
 Bartlett's charge referred to a visit made to Gov. Caulfield in March, 1930, by Sacks, after which it was learned Sacks had sought to have the Police Board, appointed by the Governor, consult the Executive Committee of the Republican State Committee about promotions and appointments in the police force.

"St. Louis has been blessed in recent years with a vigorous, fearless and honest police," Bartlett said. "The election of the wrong sort of Governor will threaten and perhaps destroy the fine Police Department developed in this city, increase traffic hazards, through spinelessness in dealing with the careless driver who has a little political pull, result in the reopening of gangster dives, and bring back the hoodlums that marked election days in years gone by."

Clark's Campaign in City.
 The senatorial campaign will be emphasized in St. Louis with the opening tonight of a speaking tour by Col. Bennett Champ Clark, candidate for the Democratic nomination. Clark will speak tonight at an outdoor meeting at Sauter's Park, 8614 South Broadway. He is expected to continue here the attack he has already launched against the prohibition stand of Charles M. Hay, one of his opponents.

In a speech at Jefferson City last night Clark asserted that as to prohibition Hay "has occupied four positions in four months. Who knows how many he may occupy in the next four?" Hay has been for years a dry leader, but has said he favors resubmission of the eighteenth amendment, while Clark is vigorously urging repeal as advocated in the Democratic national platform.

Byrnes Assails Opponents.
 Col. James W. Byrnes, another Democratic senatorial candidate, in a speech last night at Paulian Hall, criticized the stand of his three opponents, including Clark, on the liquor question. He asserted that for 10 years he has been advocating repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but that only recently Col. Clark was opposed to making prohibition repeal a party issue.

"Mr. Hay favored no change in our liquor policy and Charles M. Howell said nothing," he added. "Within the last six months I have been driving these gentlemen into the Pacific Ocean to show how wet they are, as the Atlantic isn't big enough for them. In short, if these men had no conviction on this important subject when they announced their candidacy and at the same time made no definite statement on any other subject, how on earth can you expect them to solve the economic problems now before the country?"

Leo E. Koehler of Kansas City, Republican candidate for the nomination for Governor, is to speak at a mass meeting at the Seventh and Eighth Ward tonight at the German House, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues. He will make several addresses in the city in the next three days. He is running as a wet.

Wilson Mass Meeting.
 Supporters of Francis M. Wilson for the Democratic nomination for Governor will hold an outdoor mass meeting tonight at Grand boulevard and Shenandoah avenue, at which former Congressman William L. Igoe and E. W. Blackmore will speak. There will be other Wilson meetings tonight at 2846 California avenue and 4103 Finney avenue.
 Campaign meetings for Russell L. Dearmont, Democratic candidate for the nomination for Governor, are announced for tonight at 1140 North Euclid avenue; speakers, Mrs. William F. McHenry and Mrs. Nettie Pyle; 1811 South Broadway; speaker, W. F. Miller; 5920 Clayton avenue; speakers, J. M. Lashly and J. J. Barrett; South-west-Turners' Hall; speaker, Clyde Snider and Eugene Sartorius.

 The League of Women Voters has arranged a mass meeting for tomorrow night at the Maplewood High School Stadium, 7500 Manchester avenue, at which several candidates for United States Senator and for Governor and other offices are scheduled to speak. The speakers include Republicans, Democrats and Socialists.

 Fifty-one unemployed men from Denver and Salt Lake City, on the way to Washington to participate in a demonstration for jobs, were camped today under the Free Bridge in East St. Louis.

CREDIT LENIENCY TOWARD SMALL BUSINESS URGED

New Attitude on Part of Bankers Recommended by Fourth Federal Reserve District Committee.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., July 21. — A new attitude of "credit leniency" by bankers toward thousands of small business enterprises, as a means of starting a general business recovery, was recommended today by a committee of bankers and industrialists.

The recommendation, coming from the banking and industrial committee of the Fourth Federal Reserve District, was directed to all financial institutions of the district, which embraces Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Kentucky, and part of West Virginia. A survey among 3000 manufacturers has disclosed, the committee said, "that there is a vast amount of productive business available, particularly to the small manufacturers within the district, if banking accommodations can be extended to finance such productive business."

Members of the committee are: W. M. Baldwin, president of the Union Trust Co. Cleveland; J. J. Bernat, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co.; George D. Crabbe, president of the Thrift Savings Bank; H. G. Dalton of Pickands, Mather & Co.; T. J. Davis, chairman of the First National Bank of Cincinnati; E. W. Edwards, president of the Fifth Third Union Trust Co., Cincinnati; H. S. Firestone, chairman of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co.; Howard Heinz, president of the H. J. Heinz Co.; H. C. McElwain, president of the Union Trust Co., Pittsburgh; William Cooper Procter, chairman of Procter & Gamble Co.; A. W. Robertson, chairman of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.; George M. Verity, chairman of the American Rolling Mill Co.; E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, and L. V. Williams of Hayden, Miller & Co.

"It is our conclusion," the committee said, "that it lies within the power of the bankers to make a great and important contribution toward improvement in present business conditions."

Indicating their belief that the time has arrived when the right kind of a "push" will reverse the downward path of business, the committee said:

"If faith in the lender and courage and resourcefulness in the borrower are brought into partnership in a new approach to their mutual problems, there will be important gains in employment in this district. Important increases in commodity and material sales, and there will be important new resources available, through taxes of the community, to the support of the validity of debts and interest payments."

"In short, all the related functions of our modern life will be brought into a new and improved relationship, which may well be the beginning of the first important step toward sound recovery. Mention was made of the bankers' natural desire for high liquidity particularly in times of stress, but the committee pointed out that "stagnation of production seems to have increased in step with the liquidity of banking resources," and added, "an end must be reached in the progressive increase of these two factors if we are to make any beginning of industrial recovery."

Bankers of the district were advised by the committee that the Federal Reserve System "stands ready" to rediscount for member banks eligible paper evidencing industrial, commercial or agricultural loans which from the standpoint of sound credit is acceptable.

FRENCH WORDS IN ITALIAN BANNED BY FASCIST ORDER

Campaign Against Foreign Influence Extends to Newspapers and Other Periodicals.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, July 21. — As part of the campaign in Italy against French influence and culture, the Fascist Confederation of Professional Men and Artists, which controls the arts and professions here, has issued a list of French words and one or two English words which must be replaced, henceforth, in newspapers and other publications, by Italian words suggested by the confederation.

In future the Italian will begin "life by being rocked not in a "berceau," but in a "culla." He will be nursed not by a "bonne" but a "fanciulla." He will go to school and read not "brochures" but "opuscoli," put his foot on the railing (but there aren't any in Italy), not of a "buvette" but of a "bar" (the confederation evidently thinks "bar" is a good old-fashioned Italian word), go not to a "café concerto," marry a woman with not "charm" but "fascina," buy not a "chauffeur" but a "taliolo" of an automobile, and do it with not a "cheque" but an "assegno." He will go to a "bain de toilette" instead of to a "douching," wear a "mariniera" instead of a "tux" (full dress) and a "pandolite" instead of a "gilet" (vest). He will put on a "sopporta" instead of a "paletot" (topcoat) or a "separabile" instead of a "suitout" (overcoat).

J. A. REED ASSAILS HAY ON DRY ISSUE

Also Condemns "Communist, Socialistic, Paternalistic" Government at Washington.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 21.—Former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri in a speech here last night condemned the "Communist, socialistic, paternalistic Government that rules in Washington," held President Hoover up to scorn and ridiculed Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture.

"What we need is a little common sense in the United States and we need it worse in Washington," declared Reed.

He said the farm relief bill was an example of bolshevism in government.

"In the United States we are trying to pass a law that enables a farmer, if he belongs to a certain organization, to borrow money from the Federal Government. If he does not belong he cannot borrow. That organization controls the market and there is no free market for the farmer to go into and sell his produce. He is subject to the mistake of some long-eared jackass like Artie Hyde who stands in Washington."

Reed said President Hoover was "brought over from England to regulate our farm prices during the World War after he had lived abroad 23 years. He had interests in Russia, England, China and other places and he belonged to a syndicate that was floating rotten bonds and fictitious stocks. He said himself 'I suppose you would call me a promoter.' He did not call himself an engineer then."

"He started the American farmer marching through the gap of bankruptcy and the farmers have been marching through that gap ever since."

The prohibition stand of Charles M. Hay, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, also came in for a bitter attack.

"The man who said 'lock them (bootleggers) up,' and now says 'turn them loose so I can be elected' is not fit to be elected dog catcher in the vilest section of the vilest city."

Reed gave no endorsement to either Col. Bennett C. Clark nor Charles M. Howell, candidates for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator. Reed is a close friend of both candidates.

ESTATE OF E. L. DOWNEY JR.

Final Distribution of $13,975,975
Properties Started.
By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, July 21.—Final distribution of the estate of the late Edward Lawrence Downey Jr. started yesterday. The properties will net $13,975,975, according to a petition the widow, now Mrs. Lucy Battison, administratrix, presented to the Superior Court.

After obligations are settled, the balance will be distributed to the widow and five children. Downey was shot to death Feb. 16, 1929, by his secretary, Theodore Hugh Plunkett, who afterwards committed suicide.

BRANDEIS BLOCKS DEPORTATION

BOSTON, July 21.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has been notified that Justice Louis Brandeis of the United States Supreme Court has issued an order forestalling deportation of Edith Berkman, radical labor organizer, pending her appeal to the Supreme Court.

Miss Berkman was arrested during a textile strike in Lawrence and later was ordered deported by Federal Judge Lowell because of her alleged connection with an organization devoted to the overthrow of the Government. Her appeal to the Circuit Court was denied. A mandate ordering her deportation was issued several days ago by the Circuit Court as a routine matter and the order from Justice Brandeis was obtained by her counsel to prevent such action until her final appeal is entered.

Deported, but Gets Annullity.
CLEVELAND, July 21.—Charles Sivka, 29 years old, deported as an alien, will receive a life income of $18 a week in United States money while living in his native Czechoslovakia. Immigration authorities charged Sivka, now on his way to his native country, entered the United States illegally in 1927. When found, however, he was recovering from an accident suffered in an automobile body factory and the State Compensation Board has awarded him the weekly compensation.

GROGER, 69, KILLS WIFE, THEN SELF DURING QUARREL

Joseph Harvey, Luxemburg, Shoots Mate After Threatening to if She Didn't "Make Up."

WOMAN SLAIN AS SHE LIES ON LOUNGE

Neighbors Say Strife Between Couple Had Been Continuous for Last Five Years.

Joseph Harvey, who had quarreled with his wife almost unces-santly since they established a grocery in Luxemburg five years ago, shot and killed her and ended his life last midnight.

Neighbors and neighbors, to whom the continuous strife was a source of comment and conjecture, do not know what caused the last quarrel or, for that matter, any of the others.
They know, however, that Harvey was usually in a rage against his wife, that he disappeared for periods ranging from a few days to a few months and that he frequently accused her of associating with others.

Harvey, who was 69 years old,
called last night on Frank Koller,
his brother-in-law, 1040 Wachtel avenue, Luxemburg, and sat in a lawn swing for several hours complaining about this and that and particularly about his wife.
Complained of "Money Troubles."

Koller, who had heard all of the marital disputes many times before,
was not impressed when Harvey
muttered darkly about "money troubles" and said that his wife,
Mrs. Georgia Harvey, 61 years old,
"wanted" the $700 or $800 cash which he had on hand. What he wanted it for, and why he did not want her to have it, Harvey did not explain.

Just before 12 o'clock he pounded his knee with a clenched fist and told Koller, "If she doesn't make up I'm going to do something disparate." Koller, who had heard his brother-in-law say the same thing many times before, was outwardly solicitous, but still unimpressed. Without another word
Harvey started for his three-room
bungalow at 1240 Wachtel avenue, next door to the grocery.

"He'd been gone about 10 minutes," Koller said, "when I heard a shot and right after it Georgia screamed. I telephoned the Constable, Tony Fassler. While I was doing that there were two more shots. When Fassler got there he had to break down the door to Harvey's cottage."

Killed as She Lies on Lounge.
Mrs. Harvey, who had been shot twice in the chest, was lying on the floor beside a lounge, upon which there were blood stains. Apparently Harvey shot her once as she lay on the lounge, and she rolled to the floor whereupon he shot her again and ended his own life.

Harvey was shot once, the bullet entering his right temple. He was killed outright while Mrs. Harvey is believed to have lived for about 10 minutes.

The Harveys came to Luxemburg from Jacksonville, Ill., where Harvey had been a bricklayer and where he is said to have accumulated a competence. Harvey told his neighbors and acquaintances
he wanted to go back to Jackso-ville, but that his wife liked it here.
His last disappearance, more than a year ago, was of six months duration. He returned from it last fall.

Three daughters, all married, survive. One lives in Danville, Ill.,
one in Indianapolis and the other in Detroit.

GOVERNMENT COMPETITION

HEARINGS IN CITY JULY 20
House Committee to Hold Sessions Two Days to Receive Complaints of Private Business.
The committee of the House of Representatives investigating Government competition and interference with private business will hold hearings at the Chamber of Commerce here July 22 and 23, according to an announcement of Congressman Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, chairman of the committee.

Hours for the hearings are 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. each day. All persons who have complaints against governmental competition and interference will be heard by the committee, although it is urged that witnesses present testimony in written form, as much as possible, in order to save time.
The Chamber of Commerce is arranging the daily schedules. In addition to the chairman, the committee is composed of Congressmen E. T. Cox of Georgia and S. D. Pettigill of Indiana, Democrats, and W. B. Stafford of Wisconsin and R. F. Rice of Pennsylvania, Republicans.

The measure as passed provides for a system of 8 to 12 banks, to be located by the Treasury Department, each having a minimum capital of $5,000,000 to be subscribed by home financing institutions accepted as members in each area. The banks would aid small home-owners by rediscounting home-financing paper secured by real estate mortgages and would help building and loan associations, insurance companies and others availing themselves of borrowing privileges. The United States Treasury, through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, would subscribe such part of the capital stock up to $125,000,000 as is not subscribed by members of the various banks.

The advantages of St. Louis, as a location for one of the home loan banks, are set forth in a brief prepared by the research bureau of the Industrial Club and Chamber of Commerce, and forwarded to Secretary of the Treasury Mills. Selection of St. Louis as one of the 12 seats of Federal Reserve banks is cited, with the statement that any apportionment into a smaller number than 12 districts would further accentuate the claims of St. Louis.

Building and loan associations in the central portion of the country, it is stated, have asset values of $1,885,561,753, or $1.4 per cent of the national total of $134,000,000. "The volume of loans follows the assets very closely," the brief adds, "as building and loan associations on an average loan $3.5 per cent of their assets."

Within the central area of the country and within a 350-mile radius of St. Louis, the brief says, there are 2190 building and loan associations having 2,736,173 members and assets of $1,748,647,223. This is 15.6 per cent of the total number of associations in the country, 25.1 per cent of the members and 13.8 per cent of the assets. "No other city in the area can duplicate St. Louis' record," it is declared, also that within a similar radius of Chicago there are but 1795 associations having a membership of 2,010,597 and total assets of $1,216,172,153 and, in the 350-mile radius of Kansas City there are 1988 associations, the membership of which totals 2,403,656 and assets $1,497,966,103.

HOME LOAN BILL AIDS MISSOURI COMPANIES

Building Associations Will Benefit by It, John C. Hall Says.
St. Louis and Missouri building and loan associations will be able to participate in the benefits of the home loan banks authorized in the $125,000,000 bill passed by Congress, and now awaiting the signature of President Hoover.

John C. Hall, head of a Missouri group of building and loan associations, said today that an amendment to the bill, made through the help of Senator Patterson and Representative Clyde Williams, had made it possible for building and loan associations in Missouri, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma and several other states, to apply for loans, which would not have been possible under the bill as originally drawn.

In Missouri and the other States named, the deeds of trust accepted by building and loan associations are non-negotiable, and hence could not be given by the associations as collateral to obtain loans. The home loan banking bill, with the amendment attached by the Missouri conferees, provides that loans may be made to members, or to non-member borrowers, the amount of whose creditor liabilities does not exceed 5 per cent of the borrower's net assets, without collateral.

The measure as passed provides for a system of 8 to 12 banks, to be located by the Treasury Department, each having a minimum capital of $5,000,000 to be subscribed by home financing institutions accepted as members in each area. The banks would aid small home-owners by rediscounting home-financing paper secured by real estate mortgages and would help building and loan associations, insurance companies and others availing themselves of borrowing privileges. ROWNS
ARDS IDLE; TEAM FACES REAL TEST ON WESTERN TRIP
By J. Roy Stockton.
Frankie Frisch, captain and plug of the Cardinals, is back at the old stand at base. Pepper Martin will pinch runner or outfielder. Redbirds are in better condition than they have been for the last but Charles E. Street, manager, is thinking about pitching.
It was expected that the Old man would be wearing a fair middling imitation of a smile, after his warriors had been the Dodgers in the final game of their stand at home, 14 to 1, collecting 22 hits off five who accept pay as pitchers. Frisch's exhibition alone was enough for hilarity. The team Flash hit three singles, two bases and scored three. But Street was pitcher.
Test for Syl Johnson.
In going to start Johnson in first game of the series at Cincinnati, Saturday, he said, "He is a real right again, that arm is sound and that's his. Well, I'll have to find out about him. Sure we could get on three pitchers, with open dates lined in the schedule. But remember, when we Cincinnati and go to Brooklyn, our troubles begin. We'll have three double-headers with Dodgers in three days and I'll use every man on the team. I have the utmost confidence in the Cardinals' ability to win, despite all the hard they have had, but I'd like to see another pitcher or two, able to last and finish."
Carlson's failure in the game with the Dodgers was disastrous to the Old Sergeant. The right-hander from Houston was regarded as a sure-fire in the majors. But with the option of one game in New York, in which he held the Giants two hits and scored a shutout, he has been a liability instead of an asset.
Carlson escaped in the first inning, thanks to a double play, and as hoped that a three-run lead the Cards gave him in their first of the opening frame might give him confidence, if that was needed. But O'Doul opened second inning with a homer, Stello doubled and Wright led and Carlson took that to walk to the showers.
Street indicated before the game that Carlson was getting his last shot, so he may recommend that he sent back to the minors, that some other pitcher be named in his place.
Long Road Campaign Ahead.
The Cardinals will journey to Cincinnati tomorrow for an exhibition game, returning tonight to game at Cincinnati, originally scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed to Sunday, so the Redbirds will have a day of rest before starting their long road campaign. They will depart at midnight tomorrow and after three games at Cincinnati will journey to Brooklyn for seven games in 10 days.
Moving to Boston the Cards play games in four days, after which they will move back to New York for four games at the Polo Grounds. Then after a series of contests with the Phillies and his men will return to St. Louis, opening a series with Cubs at Sportsman's Park, Sunday, July 22.
The Eastern trip should go a long way toward telling the story of the Redbirds' present chances. Frisch and Bottomley back the infield and the outfield looking smoothly, the world champions will be much stronger than they were during their last series of the weekend series. And it can be found that starting pitcher two that he has been seeking to share the hurling burden of Hallahan, Dean and Derrin, the gap that separates them from first place can be made disappear or become negligible.

BROWNS WIN, 5 TO 3, AND END 11-GAME LOSING STREAK

WARDS IDLE; TEAM FACES REAL TEST ON EASTERN TRIP

By J. Roy Stockton.

Frankie Frisch, captain and plug of the Cardinals, is back at the old stand at home, Pepper Martin will pitch shortly to serve as pinch runner or outfielder. Redbirds are in better condition than they have been for some time, but Charles E. Street, manager, is thinking about pitching.

It was expected that the Old Man would be wearing a fair middling imitation of a smile after his warriors had ended the Dodgers in the final game of their stand at home, 16 to 1, collecting 22 hits off five who accept pay as pitchers. The exhibition alone was enough for hilarity. The team Flash hit three singles, two bases and scored three. But Street was pitcher.

Test for Syl Johnson. The going to start Johnson in first game of the series at Cincinnati, Saturday, he said. "He is all right again, that's all. Well, I'll have to find out for myself. Sure we could get on open dates mixed in the middle. But remember, when we go to Cincinnati and go to Brooklyn, we'll have to be ready for the real test. I'll use every man on the team. I have the utmost confidence in the Cardinals' ability to win, despite all the hard work they have had to do. We'll have another pitcher or two, able to start and finish."

Carleton's failure in the first game with the Dodgers was disappointing to the Old Sergeant. The right-hander from Houston was regarded as a sure-fire ace in the majors. But with the exception of one game in New York, in which he held the Giants to one hit and scored a shutout, he has been a liability instead of an asset.

Carleton escaped in the first inning, thanks to a double play, and he hoped that a three-run lead in the opening frame might give him confidence, if that was needed. But O'Doul opened the second inning with a homer, Melillo doubled and Wright and Carleton took that lead to the showers.

Street indicated before the game that Carleton was getting his last chance, so he may recommend that he be sent back to the minors, but that some other pitcher be placed in his place.

Long Road Campaign Ahead. The Cardinals will journey to Cincinnati this afternoon for an exhibition game, returning tonight to St. Louis. The team, originally scheduled to play at Cincinnati, has been shifted to St. Louis, so the Redbirds will have a day of rest before starting their long road campaign. They will depart at midnight tomorrow and after three games at Cincinnati will journey to Brooklyn for seven games in ten days.

Moving to Boston the Cards play four games in four days, after which they will move back to New York for four games at the Polo Grounds. Then after a series of contests with the Phillies and their men will return to St. Louis, opening a series with the Cubs at Sportman's Park, Aug. 12.

The Eastern trip should go a long way toward telling the story of the Redbirds' pennant chances. The infield and the outfield are looking smoothly, the world champions will be much stronger than they were during their last tour of the seaboard cities. And if Street can find that starting pitcher, or to share the hurrying burden with Hallahan, Dean and Derrin, the gap that separates the team from first place can be made disappear or become negligible.

Rebel Against Expense Ruling

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 21.—Eleven of the country's leading tennis players, including three ranked in the first 10, today rebelled against a recent edict of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club, which announced that the expenses of the players would not be paid after they have been eliminated in the famous New Jersey club Monday.

The players, led by Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, ranked No. 6; Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Cal., No. 8; and Berkeley Bell of New York, No. 10, said they would not play in the tournament if the Seabright officials refused to change their ruling.

In a signed statement the players pointed out that they were responsible for the gate receipts and should be paid all of their expenses as in past years.

In addition to the three high-ranking players, others who signed the statement were Joe Coughlin and Henry Tulley of California, Bryan Grant of Atlanta, Ga., J. Gilbert Grant of South Orange, N. J., Jake Hess of Texas, Dr. Eugene McCaulliff of New York, and Fritz McCurt of Newark, N. J.

Gregory Mangin, national indoor tennis player, was the only leader player refusing to sign the statement.

Nebraska Coach Resigns

LINCOLN, Neb., July 21.—Charles T. Black, head basketball coach at the University of Nebraska, resigned today, effective Sept. 1. He also was an assistant football coach.

By the Associated Press. LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 21.—The Pacific Coast sent six players into the second round of the national public links golf tournament here today and as a result of having sent 34 players to Louisville, stands a good chance of entertaining the meet either next year or in 1934.

UNCANNY BEATS RENAISSANCE IN CLOSE FINISH

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Two sons of Master Charles J. H. Leitch, the uncanny and J. H. Robinson's Renaissance staged one of the prettiest duels of the season to finish a neck as named in the Tarrytown Stakes of a mile and 70 yards here this afternoon. The two colts carried equal weight of 114 pounds, with the winner a 9 to 2 shot and Renaissance the 7 to 1 favorite.

The Belair Stud's Pardee was beaten five lengths for the place, while doing his best to hold the minor award. Only four started. The winner earned $1485 and his time was 1:44 4-5.

Uncanny was off on his toes, with Renaissance right after him. The field was fairly well bunched going to the first turn and Frank Horn steered Uncanny through on the inside to open up daylight. Renaissance set Renaissance down in earnest around in the bend approaching the home stretch but Horn, riding with good judgment, had saved enough for the hard drive to the judges' stand.

LANDIS APPROVES ADAMS' APPLICATION FOR RETIREMENT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today approved the application of William "Bill" Dickey, New York Yankee catcher, who was declared ineligible until Aug. 4 and fined $1000 for breaking Carl Reynolds' jaw.

Dickey assaulted the Washington outfielder July 4 when the latter scored standing up, breaking his lower jaw in two places. President Will Harridge of the American League levied the fine and suspension, which were upheld by the league directors in their summer session at Cleveland.

Commissioner Landis also canceled the Chicago White Sox optional release of Johnny Poser, former Wisconsin star, who was sent to Earl J. "Sparky" Adams of the St. Louis Cardinals to be placed on the voluntarily retired list.

Catcher Howard Rowland. Catcher Charles Rowland has been given his outright release by the Atlanta Crackers.

BOY CHAINED TO POST AS PUNISHMENT

Ohio Child Released by Deputy and Father Held for Investigation.

By the Associated Press.

PORTSMOUTH, O., July 21.—A 14-year-old boy who said his father chained him to a post for two days as punishment, was under the protection of Scioto County authorities today, while the parent was held for investigation.

The boy, Andrew Kilby of Flatwoods, was found by officers yesterday, screaming and locked to the post with a 10-foot chain which was fastened around his ankle. He was wearing a bathing suit and was sunburned badly, they said. Deputy Sheriff Everett Ridge severed the chain with an ax and was told by the boy that the father, Paul Kilby, 33, chained him to the post near their home, as a punishment for going swimming and for staying out after dark Sunday night.

The father explained, the officers said, that the boy was incorrigible and that he had hoped the punishment would teach him to obey.

Andrew said he was first locked to the post early Tuesday morning, was permitted to sleep in the house that night, but was chained again the following morning. The officers were called by neighbors who were aroused by the boy's screams.

Two others are in jail awaiting trial. The three are charged also with the $150 holdup of Charles Melvin, member of the St. Clair County Board of Assessors, and Mrs. Mabel McGowan, who were forced to accompany the robbers from East St. Louis into Madison County.

William Carniff of East St. Louis was sentenced to one to 10 years in prison on his plea of guilty of burglary, and James Johnson, 16, a Chicago Negro, was sentenced to one year to life in the reformatory on a plea of guilty of taking part in a burglary at the Hub Clothing Co. in East St. Louis with two other Negroes, who are awaiting trial.

Bans Use of Name "Limoges." WASHINGTON, July 21.—The Federal Trade Commission has ordered the Limoges China Co. of Sebring, O., to stop using the name Limoges in connection with the sale or advertising of China, porcelain, glassware or earthenware manufactured in this country unless the place of manufacture is conspicuously shown. The company has used the name "Limoges" since its organization in 1904. The commission held, however, that use of the name without qualification "has had a tendency to mislead the public into the belief that the ware offered for sale was produced in Limoges, France."

Youths Act Like Soldiers In First Review of Camp

1600 Students at Jefferson Barracks Parade Before Commandant to Music of Their Own Band.

Marching to the music of their own band, youths of Camp Atwell T. Lincoln is enhanced by an unusual number of experienced campers. There are about 20 "blue" students, who have attended three previous camps and made high records; 10 who are attending their first camp and about 300 second-year campers. The more experienced youths have been assigned as non-commissioned officers.

Student Officers' New Idea. One of the embryo officers grew so enthusiastic he assumed the responsibility of breaking precedent by marching his company back to camp from mess. The companies march to mess but are dismissed in the mess hall. He issued his order and waited outside for the company to assemble but the youths scattered and he found himself without a command.

One of the "blue" students, regarded as an officer material, will speak over KMOX Sunday at 2 p. m. He is Fred J. Biggs, Neelyville, Mo. Fast friendships are being formed by tentmates from different communities. Homesickness is less prevalent than ever before and is cured usually by teaming a sorrowful youth up with one of a jovial disposition.

The usual "bad breaks" occur daily, ranging from a lad who thought he wore his raincoat in swimming so as to keep dry, to the recruit who woke his Captain and asked for a "reville button."

Part of Sixth Infantry. When drill began the young soldiers learned how heavy an 8 1/2-pound rifle could get after a short time under the sun. But they got their reward in participating in the regimental review, marching under the colors of the historic Sixth Infantry, one of the five oldest organizations in the army, brought up to war strength for 30 days by the addition of the youths of the C. M. T. C.

But all or even the major part of camp life is not confined to drill. Although the youths are pronounced by their officers to be the quietest ever to attend a camp at Jefferson Barracks, there has been no dearth of practical jokes after taps.

Many a cot has mysteriously gone down; pulls of water have been doused on occupants of certain tents; and stones have a way of finding themselves under the sheets. Officers may admonish but not punish—a circumstance which makes some of the old line Sergeants wish audibly that "this was a draft outfit."

Instead of detesting "K. P." the youths usually welcome an assignment to kitchen duty. "There can't be too much 'K. P.' for me," a recruit said, "cause that's one time I make the officers wait. I see to it that I get the best food, too."

Plenty of Appetites. Appetites of campers have failed to slacken, the youths attacking stores of foodstuffs three times a day.

"Usually they eat a lot the first day or so and get filled up at the end of a week," said Capt. Canfield, quartermaster, "but not these boys. They are eating as much as they did the first day of camp."

RECOMMENDS LINE'S EXTENSION

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Examiner R. R. Molster today recommended that the Interstate Commerce Commission authorize the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. to extend its lines into Milwaukee, Wis., by means of a car ferry between Muskegon, Mich., and Milwaukee.

The extension would be about 34 miles. The operation would be via the Grand Trunk-Pennsylvania Transportation Co.'s car ferry. This company has been organized to take over the car ferry of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad, a subsidiary of the Canadian National.

Don't FOOL with FLIES KILL THEM

WHO can afford to waste time on hopeless, weak methods of chasing flies? It's so simple to fill a spray gun with Black Flag, shoot the clean mist upwards into the air, and then watch flies drop dead. There's a real reason why Black Flag works so surely and quickly. Nature grows a rare flower which produces the precious substance in Black Flag. This is Nature's own insect-killing secret. It's safe, too... has no effect on people or pets. Use Black Flag to kill mosquitoes and other bugs.

61,451 PAY STATE TAX ON INCOMES OF $108,753,287 IN CITY, COUNTY
80 Per Cent Report Amounts of Less Than $2000 on Which Collections Are Made for 1933 Analysis Reveals.
13 ASSESSED ON $100,000 OR MORE
Figures Show 1699 Persons Comprising 2.7 Per Cent of Taxpayers Make Returns for 32 Per Cent Total.
(Copyright, 1933, by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)
Income taxable under the 1926 law was reported for 1931 by 451 individuals in St. Louis and 1699 in the county. The aggregate of their income on which tax was assessed was $108,753,287.
The number reporting taxable incomes was slightly less than 6 per cent of the combined population of the city and county, which is 1,032,114.
These and other important facts are shown in analyses of State income tax returns prepared at request of the Post-Dispatch by Assessor Fred Gehner of the city and George M. Herpel of the county. These analyses include breakdowns of the income tax returns by income groups, such as are prepared annually by the United States Treasury Department for Federal income tax returns, nationally by states.
13 incomes exceeded $100,000. Thirteen taxable incomes exceeding $100,000 were reported, 8 were in the city and six in the county. The largest was $700,000, reported in the city. Total income reported by the 13 was $2,811,000, or an average of $216,240.
At the other extreme was the largest group of taxpayers, those paying on income of less than $2000. This group numbered 328 individuals, or 80.3 per cent of the taxpayers. They had total taxable income of $1,739,747, or 1.6 per cent of aggregate. The average taxable income of this large group was $5304.
Taxable income is that remaining after personal exemptions, allowable deductions are subtracted from gross income. Single persons are allowed exemption of $1000 and heads of families $2000 for each dependent child. Because of deductions for loss and other allowed items tax income may not exactly represent actual income.
One out of every 17 persons in the State income tax. For every 74 persons gainfully employed there was one taxpayer, based on the 1930 census report of 338,324 employed in the city and 1,032,114 in the county.
The proportion of the population paying the income tax, nearly 8 per cent, was much higher than the national average. Federal income tax, which is a 2 per cent tax on the State income tax, however, exemptions are in line with those that have been heretofore the Federal tax.
1699 Persons Average $20,000. The reports show that 23.4 per cent of the taxable income was received by 2.7 per cent of the taxpayers who paid on $10,000 or more. In this group were 1699 individuals with total income of $1,739,747, or an average of $1024.
The group paying on less than $2000 income numbered 328, the city, 23.4 per cent of the total, and 1699 in the county, 80.3 per cent of the total. In the city group had taxable income of $1,739,747, which was 24.6 per cent of the total reported, and in the county the amount was $1,739,747, 18.5 per cent of the total.
The $2000 to $10,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total; $10,000 to $20,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $20,000 to $50,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $50,000 to $100,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $100,000 to $200,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $200,000 to $500,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $500,000 to $1,000,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.
The $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 group had 1699 returns, 10.6 per cent of the total; county, 10.6 per cent of the total; city, 10.6 per cent of the total.

Income taxable under the State law was reported for 1931 by 61,451 individuals in St. Louis and St. Louis County. The aggregate of their income on which tax was assessed was $108,753,287.
The number reporting taxable incomes was slightly less than 6 per cent of the combined population of the city and county, which is 1,633,114.
These and other important facts are shown in analyses of State income tax returns prepared at the request of the Post-Dispatch by Assessors Fred Gehner of the city and George M. Herpel of the county. These analyses include breakdowns of the income tax returns by income groups, such as are prepared annually by the United States Treasury Department for Federal income tax returns, nationally and by states.

11 incomes Exceeded $100,000 Each.
Thirteen taxable incomes exceeding $100,000 were reported. Seven were in the city and six in the county. The largest was $200,000, reported in the city. Total income reported by the 13 was $2,311,127, or an average of $216,240.
At the other extreme was the largest group of taxpayers, those paying on income of less than $2000. This group numbered 48,123 individuals, or 80.3 per cent of the taxpayers. They had total taxable income of $31,799,747, or 29.3 per cent of aggregate. The average taxable income of this large group was $664.

Taxable income is that remaining after personal exemptions and allowable deductions are subtracted from gross income. Single persons are allowed exemption of $1000 and heads of families $1500 and $2000 for each dependent child. Because of deductions for losses and other allowed items taxable income may not exactly reflect actual income.
One out of every 17 persons paid the State income tax. For every 74 persons gainfully employed there was one taxpayer, based on the 1920 census report of 355,123 gainfully employed in the city and $2,324 in the county.
The proportion of the population paying the income tax, nearly 6 per cent, was much higher than the national average paying the Federal income tax, which is about 3 per cent. For the State income tax, however, exemptions are lower than they have been heretofore for the Federal tax.

1699 Persons Average $20,000.
The reports show that 2.6 per cent of the taxable income was received by 2.7 per cent of the taxpayers who paid on $100,000 or more. In this group were 1699 individuals with total income of $35,455,725, or an average of $20,865.
The group paying on less than $2000 income numbered 48,123 in the city, 8.2 per cent of the total, and 9662 in the county, 68.2 per cent of the total. In the city this group had taxable income of $28,075,211, which was 24.6 per cent of the total reported, and in the county the amount was $6,724,436, or 14.6 per cent of the total.
The $2000 to $5000 group: City, 1604 returns, 10.6 per cent of total; $15,000 to $25,000 group, 29.7 per cent of total; county, 2545 returns, 19 per cent of total; $5,000 to $10,000 group, 22.2 per cent of total.

FLYER'S ARREST IN MEXICO TECHNICAL, PHYSICIAN SAYS

Employers Requested Rescued
Aviator Be Held Until All Details
Are Cleared Up.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, July 21.—Dr. A. R. Goodman, physician who flew to San Gerónimo to treat Clarence McElroy, United States flyer, yesterday from an Osageo jungle, said McElroy's arrest there was merely technical. McElroy, found three weeks after his plane crashed June 27, was taken to San Gerónimo to recuperate from his injuries.
A lawyer representing the Dean Co. of Honduras, of which McElroy's companion, Roy Gordon, was a co-owner, requested the flyer be held. It is believed that McElroy, who comes from Maryland, Ind., will be allowed to leave by Sunday. Gordon was killed in the crash. No suspicion was held against McElroy, it was said, but the authorities wanted to clear up all details.
McElroy recovered consciousness only Tuesday. He is able to talk, Dr. Goodman said, but he is weak and has not said much.
The doctor said he learned McElroy stayed with the wrecked plane four days and then struck out to save himself, traveling on his hands and knees for 14 days through the jungle until he was found by an Indian.

A. F. OF L. ASKS HOOVER TO BACK FIVE-DAY WEEK

President William Green to Confer With the Chief Executive on Subject or Submit Argument.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 21.—The American Federation of Labor has called upon President Hoover to use his influence in behalf of a nationwide application of the five-day week and six-hour day in all industries as the only cure for unemployment.
The Federation's Executive Council yesterday directed President William Green to confer with President Hoover on the subject. Green said he either would call on the President after the council's session adjourns this week or would submit a brief.

Green emphasized that the council favored application of the plan to clerical workers as well as laborers and mechanics. "The nation must either give up machinery or give up the long work week and long work day," said a statement of the council. "No thinking person would willingly see the human race deprived of the great benefits of machinery and power."

The tragedy of the situation lies in hunger, distress, destruction of moral and spiritual values and impairment of confidence among millions of people in the nation. The impotency of industrial management to apply constructive, practical measures for relief of unemployment stands out in bold relief as a major cause for the continued distress.

"The only procedure by industrial management has been to reduce wages, destroy buying power, increase unemployment and injure both capital and labor."

"Labor holds that the millions of working men and women now idle may properly demand the right to work. Industrial management can make active and vital the exercise of this right by an equitable distribution of the work available."

"Industry, finance and ownership, through the thousands of agencies, having failed to meet the situation voluntarily, makes it necessary to call upon the Chief Executive of the nation, speaking for all people and supported by public opinion, to demand, in the name of all of the people, that industrial management institute immediately the shorter work day and the shorter work week upon a national basis."

The conference found that "unemployment continues with increasing problems, despite all efforts to curb the lessening of business activity. . . . co-operative national action to achieve job security by job-sharing seems imperative."
The conference adopted a resolution suggesting a shorter work week, giving employment to an additional 10 per cent of workers. It suggested that the plan be put into effect without increasing the cost of doing business. To this end it suggested small contributions from wage earners still employed.

The plan would begin by adding

Emergency Squad Fires on Communists Meeting in Berlin to Protest Against Martial Law.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, July 21.—Two men were killed and a number injured last night in spite of martial law and dictatorship.

A Communist was shot dead and a number were wounded at midnight when an emergency squad fired upon a group of 200 Communists who gathered in South-eastern Berlin to protest against the martial law decree.

Another Communist was slain by police during a Communist-National Socialist fight at Weisswasser, Saxony. Several persons were injured in a three-cornered clash at Homburg in which Nazis, Communists and Reichsbannermen participated. At Buer, in the Ruhr, Nazis fired on a group of "iron fronts," Republican supporters, seriously wounding three.

The new military rule prevented Communist and Nazi meetings scheduled for last night at Luckenwalde in the province of Brandenburg.

Hitler Approves Decree.

In a speech at Bremen, Adolf Hitler, Nazi leader, expressed his over the dictatorship established in Prussia and Brandenburg by the Von Papen Government.

"It was high time," he said.

The crowd thundered out a mighty cheer when it was announced that Premier Braun, for 11 years head of the Prussian Ministry, and Karl Seydewitz, Minister of Defense, were removed from office by the new dictatorial regime.

On the other hand, a large crowd, only part of which could squeeze its way into a big circus tent, cheered former Chancellor Brüning at Munich when he deplored the treatment of Severing.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

With Profound Regret.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

THAT was an excellent letter you published in support of Prof. Frankfurter's designation of a place on the Massachusetts Supreme Court. As a layman, it did not convince me that Prof. Frankfurter had chosen wisely, or that the Post-Dispatch was wrong in regretting the choice. It may well be that the teacher has opportunities and facilities for research not possessed by the practicing lawyer or the Judge, though that claim could, in my judgment, be contested.

For example, Benjamin Cardozo, lately appointed to the United States Supreme Court, has found time, in his busy life as practicing lawyer and Judge, to write a couple of books which, I am persuaded, are bound to influence the evolution of law and the concepts of justice. Back of those volumes are the research of studious years, the experience of both the lawyer and the Judge and the midnight oil of fine, hard thinking. It is fair to say, I believe, that Prof. Frankfurter and Justice Cardozo are intellectual brothers. They are each inspired by the same divine curiosity, equipped with the same capacity for work, partners in their enthusiasm for justice and whatever his office, Prof. Frankfurter, like Justice Cardozo, would find occasion for important accomplishment in addition to the duties of his office.

In one of your several editorials on the subject, you cited the coincident fact that Justice Holmes had resigned his professorship in the Harvard Law School to accept the post of Associate Justice on the Massachusetts Supreme Court. Presumably he weighed the two careers of teacher and Judge, just as Prof. Frankfurter has done. He chose the bench, and by that choice he served the law and society so well that the profession holds him in reverence, calls him an Olympian, and the humblest of us join with the greatest in honoring him, not as a Judge, not as a lawyer, but as a Minister of Justice, preaching, as he were, a gospel of democracy. To such heights Felix Frankfurter, as a Judge, might have attained. He can never reach them as a professor.

Does Wilson Deserve It?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

ANY selling-plater can win a race if he has no other horses running against him, but it takes a thoroughbred to win in company. Supporters of Francis M. Wilson advocate his candidacy on the ground that he was defeated in 1928. His list of defeats does much further back than that. In fact, he has never won a political race in which he had counted on winning.

As an example, Mr. Wilson was the Democratic nominee for Congress in the Fourth Missouri District in 1912. For the first time in its history, that Democratic district went Republican and Mr. Wilson went down to defeat.

The only times Mr. Wilson was elected to office were when he was unopposed and accepted gratuities at the hands of the Democratic party of Missouri. On the other hand, there is no evidence of his repayment of the debt to the party. He refuses to make a speech. He refuses to bestir himself, but sits complacently on his front porch at Platte City (or is it Kansas City?) and awaits the gifted messengers of his party to bring him on a silver platter the highest honor within the desire of any true Missouri Democrat. Do you think he deserves it?

Champion Payroll Signers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

WHERE John Nance Garner holds the splendid record of 35 years on the public payroll, incomplete reports indicate that Charles Curtis shades him by a Christmas, or better.

Mr. Curtis, upon leaving the wigwam, took a political position and since has never been without one. On the other hand, Mr. Garner got into salaried public life just as early as possible, but owing to the fact that he was born some years after Mr. Curtis for which he was in no wise to blame, Mr. Curtis got away to an unenviable advantage.

Since then it has been an endurance contest, with Mr. Curtis maintaining his early lead. But after this long and magnificent struggle, it is encouraging to observe that neither is wavering. Just what the ultimate outcome will be, only time, of course, can tell.

But it is here conceded that both men have done the very best they could, under the circumstances, and their staggering records for time in service should exclude from the campaign any implication that either is unseasoned, at least from the audience.

Partisans graciously admit that both candidates for the Vice-Presidency are old-fashioned, which is refreshing in these ultra-modern times. Precursory information, however, gives Mr. Garner an edge over his opponent as a family man. Just to have his brood near him at all times, Mr. Garner long ago obtained Government positions for them all. That should remove another blemish from the campaign, if it does not banish forever Versailles prophecy that the old-time family man has joined the wild ones, never to be seen again.

THE OTTAWA CONFERENCE.

The first British imperial conference to be held in one of the dominions, and the first to be held since the United Kingdom abandoned the gold standard and the policy of free trade, convenes today in Ottawa.

The delegates assembled there represent a quarter of the world's land area and a fourth of its total population. Their slogan is "Buy British." It is their purpose to stimulate trade among the members of the British commonwealth by so adjusting tariff barriers as to afford a substantial preference to imperial products. Their policy finds its ultimate objective in the economic consolidation of the empire.

Great Britain has sent a strong delegation to the conference. It will await the outcome of the negotiations with concern. Its economic future hangs upon the action which will be taken at Ottawa. The prevalent American impression that England's adoption of the protective principle has restored English prosperity is not borne out by the current statistics of industry and trade. Since the general tariff went into effect, exports have declined; railway traffic and earnings have fallen off; ship cargoes have dwindled; industrial profits have dropped and the volume of unemployment has increased. The tariff has failed, the abandonment of gold has failed, to revive British industry. That is why hopes are now fixed upon the prospects of imperial trade preference.

England entered the negotiations with greater bargaining power than she has had at earlier conferences. Her general tariff of 20 per cent has not yet been applied to the dominions. The date of its application has been set at Nov. 15. With this threat she can trade for concessions from the dominions. Even so, prospects of achievement are not too bright.

The dominions have raised tariffs against the mother country in order to develop their own industries. Their manufacturers are demanding protection against England quite as much as against the rest of the world. Canadian Conservatives put Premier Bennett into office because he promised protection. He cannot now move far toward freedom for imperial trade. Canada's economic interests are not exclusively, not even predominantly, British. Three-fourths of her imports come from outside the empire. Five-eighths of her exports go outside the empire. Foreign investments in Canada total six billion dollars. Of these, Americans own 81 per cent. Englishmen only 39 per cent. Indeed, imperial tariff adjustments, far from helping British manufacturers in the Canadian market, may further stimulate migration of American industry into Canada.

The other dominions present similar obstacles. Australia and New Zealand are building up their own manufactures. South Africa's delegate announces that his country cannot limit its trade to the few countries within the empire. Indian hostility to the importation of British textiles continues unabated. And the quarrel with the Irish Free State over land annuities and the oath of allegiance threatens to bring about the imposition of tariffs which will prohibit all trade between the islands. Here, as in India, the slogan is not "Buy British," but "Boycott British."

Even if the dominions were prepared to move into closer economic alliance, Britain could not afford to welcome such a development if it came at the cost of her trade with the rest of the world. Her largest investments, her greatest trade, are outside the empire. She dare not isolate herself from Argentina, Denmark, Norway and Sweden. She dare not court European tariff retaliation or exclude herself from European agreements for tariff reduction. She dare not trade preferences on food for preferences on manufactured goods unless she is prepared to impose a heavy burden on British labor. It is scarcely conceivable that Ottawa can accomplish much in the direction of reducing internal tariffs. It may, on the other hand, raise higher imperial tariffs against the rest of the world.

This is a possibility which seriously concerns American business. Canada is our largest customer. She takes three-fifths of her imports from us. In the past we have sold her goods worth one billion dollars a year. We consistently have sold her more than we have bought from her. Now we may see this market slipping away. Great Britain will attempt to exclude our products from the dominion in order that her own may take their places. Already we hear rumors of an agreement between Canadian and British steel interests, by the terms of which Canada will purchase the products which she cannot make herself from Britain rather than from the United States. If the imperial conference succeeds, American exports will continue to decline; more American plants will cross the border, and more American labor will be thrown out of employment.

It is not a happy prospect, but it was we who took the lead in restricting trade. If the rest of the world follows our example, we dare not complain.

PRUSSIA UNDER DICTATORSHIP.

The ominous import of the German Government's order placing Prussia under dictatorship may be speedily grasped by a view of the area and population statistics of that State. Prussia has 113,039 square miles of the Reich's total 180,976, and contains 38,109,000 of its 63,845,000 inhabitants. Thus almost two-thirds of Germany's area and more than half of her people are living today under a regime more repressive than can be found in any other of the world's republics. The constitutional guarantees of free speech, the right of assembly, the rights of private property and the privacy of communications are set aside. The nation's capital is under martial law. Death penalties are provided for resistance to the dictatorship.

The long series of riots among the German factions is given as the reason for the step taken by Chancellor von Papen and President von Hindenburg. These bloody disturbances are out of keeping with the German character, long renowned for its devotion to law and order. The German revolution was bloodless, but the life of the republic has been marred by frequent outbreaks. There are numerous causes: the tolerance of armed forces maintained by political groups, popular objection to the enormous drastic tax and other decrees imposed by the Government, the spirit of protest against Germany's subjection under the Versailles Treaty. The mutual slaughter among Communists and Fascists, the chief parties in the warfare, has not advanced the cause of either, nor that of Germany. Yet these groups would have only minor objectives had not Germany been oppressed for so long by the reparations payments and the other impositions of the treaty.

Germany's rapid descent from had to worse, culminating in the Prussian dictatorship, under the heel of the once ragged Junkerdom, arouses fear that the reparations agreement at Versailles may have come too late. Assuredly, there are desperate days for the young republic, and the substitution of the reactionary Von Papen for the conciliatory Brüning in the chancellorship has not helped matters. It is to be hoped that the professional disturbers have not totally destroyed the people's balance, and that the Government will realize the futility of repression.

TAXING THE ELECTRIC POWER CONSUMER.

There has been much discussion of how the emergency tax on electricity was transferred from the producer, as originally voted by the Senate, and placed on the consumer, as was done in conference. The 3 per cent tax now is being collected from the consumer, although the Senate had voted, 81 to 19, to make it a charge on the power companies. The contention that the conference had exceeded their authority was overruled by Vice-President Curtis. The Senate, rather than delay the entire tax bill in the face of Mr. Hoover's appeal for quick action, approved the report, 41 to 32.

It is now disclosed that Senator Smoot won the day for the power interests by protesting in conference that the tax on them was confiscatory, and would bankrupt "certain utility companies in Utah." This was, of course, absurd on its face. The amendment, as proposed by Senator Howell, provided that that tax should be "payable from net income, but not otherwise." Thus, if there were no net income, the Government would demand no tax remittance, and there was no conceivable way for the company, however hard pressed, to be bankrupted by the levy. Nevertheless, the argument prevailed.

Senator Norris, in an address shortly before Congress adjourned, gave an exhaustive account of those Utah utility concerns whose nearness to insolvency inspired Mr. Smoot to his effective plea. Chief among these is the Utah Power & Light Co., whose complex pedigree runs back to the potent Electric Bond & Share Co. In the financing of the power company since 1912, a total securities inflation of $34,330,000 was found by the Federal Trade Commission. The subholding companies collected $6,150,000 in cash dividends on its stock in six years. In addition, the company paid $2,974,000 cash for fees, supervision and service charges to its affiliates. Yet in 1930 the company earned 10.1 per cent on its fixed capital, and only a slightly smaller figure in 1931.

Apocryphs this utility, Mr. Smoot was quoted: "If you put a tax upon these corporations, it will ruin this great company in Utah." The figures presented by Mr. Norris, however, show it to be far from the impending calamity. In fact, power companies as a whole have been among the lines of business least affected by the depression. The underhanded change in the revenue bill was solely to protect their profits—"more money than they ought to have been allowed to make, or to keep," as Mr. Norris expressed it. The Government proved unable to apply an emergency tax to those profits, but it taxes every electric light, every electrical kitchen appliance and every electrical factory machine used in the country, for an estimated total of $60,000,000 a year. It is one of the most audacious of all the Power Trust's incursions upon the people.

EULOGY TO THE EAST SIDE TROLLEY.

Come Saturday midnight and the East Side trolley, which for 30 years has run out to Belleville and up the bluffs to Collinsville, will have bumped off to join the limbo of forgotten things. In days long since past it took rollicking parties to the old Belleville House for those asparagus dinners of hallowed memories, and bundled great family gatherings and their heaping baskets and bait buckets out to Allen's Park for weekends of fishing and mosquito fighting. Every car was full in those days, and frequently commuters stood up all the way home. Then came the automobile and the hard roads, the buses and service cars. Rates went up during the war, forgot to come down and the commuters became their own motor-men and began to transport their neighbors. Only a loyal handful will go down with the ship. As trolleys go, the "suburban" was among the best. Conductors knew their passengers and many a time the car waited while a tardy commuter dashed out of breath. It was warm in winter and cool in summer. It plowed through snow and rattled through bottom land heat. It was late when it rained, but, given time, it made the rounds. Now, a new and faster age has left it on a sidetrack, its fading yellow paint to bleach out in the sun. Rest to its weary wheels.

MR. BECKER'S DEATH RATTLE.

The Anti-Saloon League of Missouri has pronounced its blessing on Charles U. Becker for the Republican nomination for Governor, and there's nothing the candidate can do about it except take it on the chin. Whatever its effect in rural Missouri, this approval is fatal in St. Louis. Mr. Becker's local backers are said to be stunned. They may well be. They had a pretty difficult job at best. As Secretary of State Mr. Becker has been one of our ostentatious adventures, and then there was his record when, a member of the Legislature, he was a dry stalwart, voting for everything the league desired.

As he ponders his latest embarrassment, Mr. Becker possibly regrets that he did not keep pace with the change of sentiment and shift his position as another dry favorite in our neighboring State of Illinois. We refer, of course, to Len Small, whom the Anti-Saloon League over there endorsed and supported in all the wars. But, convinced that the league's political usefulness to him was ending, Len promptly disavowed his dry illusions last spring, raised aloft the wet banner, and today he is the Republican nominee for Governor.

To the thoughtful citizen there is food for serious reflection in the action of the Anti-Saloon League in endorsing candidates like Len Small of Illinois and Charles U. Becker of Missouri. The election of either of them would be a calamity to his State. But because they have voted for the Anti-Saloon League's pet measures, or professed sympathy with the prohibition cause, every other consideration is dismissed and people are advised by this organization, with its pretensions to superior righteousness, to elect men to high office who have been tried and found extravagant and incompetent wanting. This policy, as is known, has not been confined to Missouri and Illinois. It has prevailed everywhere. It is one of many reasons why the Anti-Saloon League has faded from a political asset to a political liability.

The simple truth is that the Anti-Saloon League's endorsement commands the respect of nobody today except the extremists who would bury the country in prohibition's grave. Such an organization was bound to die. It is dying. The benediction it has conferred on Charles U. Becker is a death rattle.

THE SHADES OF NIGHT WERE FALLING FAST,
AS THROUGH AN OZARK VILLAGE PASSED

Adjournment at Geneva

By Walter Lippmann.

AFTER long months of patient negotiations, the disarmament conference at Geneva is on the point of adjourning until next January. No definite agreements have been reached, and the formal statement of principles, hopes and intentions which the conference will publish appears at best to imply a moral obligation to keep on trying to make real agreements.

To recognize this is no ground for complaining about the work of the conference or of the governments represented. On the contrary, the conference itself has been a great achievement: to have kept 60 nations talking amiably about their vital interests, to have explored and debated questions which touch the pride, the honor and the fears of so many peoples, to have had no explosions but rather to have increased understanding, is in any broad perspective a unique performance. Nothing like it has ever been attempted before in the whole history of the world, and not to have failed ignominiously is almost a triumph.

The primary credit belongs to the delegates, to the foreign offices and to the secretariat of the League of Nations. The delegates have conducted themselves as honest and civilized men, disdaining, with a restraint which is beyond all praise, the easy popularity which any of them could have won by appealing to the passions of the voters at home. The opportunities for profitable mischief have been enormous. No one exploited them.

When it is recalled how much informed people dreaded the convening of the conference at a time of such disorder in the world, how much fear there was that Geneva would be used as a stage on which to make spectacular gestures, it is a cause for wonder and for confidence in the ultimate integrity of men that adjournment comes with the governments better prepared than ever before to reach agreements.

In this achievement, President Hoover and Secretary Stimson played a great part. They have been persistent and resolute and loyal. The American delegation at Geneva, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Davis, Mr. Wilson, Senator Swanson and Miss Woolley, has performed a kind of public service for which there can never be adequate public appreciation because the most important part of it consists in things done for which no credit can be taken. The prodigious patience, the tenacity and the tact and the ingenuity which are needed to keep a conference of this kind harmoniously in being, are difficult to imagine and almost impossible to describe.

With the technical discussions about various kinds of armament few of us can be so much concerned. The actual form that limitation and reduction may eventually take will not greatly matter. What does matter is the evolution of the will to limit and reduce. The terms of the actual treaty will be merely a concrete record and a series of symbolic facts that register the progress of the nations toward confidence in one another's purposes.

The debates about big guns and tanks and aircraft and poison gas and budgetary limitation are to the reality of peace what temperature, pulse, respiration, blood pressure and the like are to the reality of health. Agreements about particular disarmament will be significant and easy when international relations are pacific; they will remain insignificant and difficult while international relations are troubled.

Looked at in this fashion, it can be said, I think, that since the conference assembled last February, world relations have improved at the center of our civilization and have deteriorated on the fringes. The affair in the Far East, both in Manchuria and in Shanghai, has been a grave setback. Not only has it revealed the weaknesses of the post-war machinery of peace, but it has set the stage for prolonged disturbance in the Orient.

It would be idle to pretend that it is not now more difficult than it has been for 10 years to make naval agreements in the Pacific or to feel at ease about that part of the world. Confidence in pledges has been shattered, and while it does no good to shout about the dangers which have been revealed, they will not be forgotten.

On the other hand, the progress in Europe has been greater than anyone dared to hope. By a strange irony, the greatest achievement in the direction of peace and stability has provoked irritation in the United States. I refer to the accord of confidence between France and Britain. The value of this understanding has been somewhat injured by the bungling diplomacy and the execrable showmanship with which it was presented to the world.

The explanations explaining the explanations may conceivably have hurt it irreparably, but if Britain and France have the good sense and the courage to do what the accord promises, to work as partners rather than as rivals in Europe, there will exist for the first time since the debacle of Versailles a center of stability in the constitution of Europe. There is no other way that order can be restored. Britain and France are the strongest Powers as rivals they must keep Europe embroiled, as partners they can make Europe coherent.

It is a fair assumption that the Franco-British accord at Lausanne provides the diplomatic foundation for the resumption of the conference at Geneva. On that foundation, assuming that Germany precipitates no new situation under the pressure of Hitlerism, France may be expected to take the steps which will make possible the first stage in the limitation and reduction of European armaments.

THE REAL RAIDERS.

FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SINCE 1918, World War veterans have had free hospital care, though the condition requiring attention be not the result of military service. In 1931, three-quarters of the admissions to veterans' hospitals were non-service-connected cases.

Does it seem reasonable that the United States should be giving hospital care to nearly four times as many veterans as Great Britain? Or that American expenditures for the benefit of World War veterans should have steadily mounted during a decade in which British expenditures for World War veterans have as steadily decreased?

Natural physics will explain these anomalies. The truth is that the United States possesses so abundantly and Great Britain lacks almost entirely politicians eager to exploit the veterans' cause and to press new benefits upon them. The chief raiders of the treasury have not been veterans, but members of Congress.

Tax Collectors to Spare

From the Kansas City Times.

ONE, but only one, of the sources of needless expense in Missouri State government is the supervision and collection of taxes by numerous agencies instead of a single centralized body.

The income tax, the soldier bonus tax and the blind pension tax are collected by the State Auditor; motor vehicle license corporation fees and incorporation fees by the Secretary of State; the county foreign insurance tax and the State foreign insurance tax by the Auditor and the Insurance Commissioner. The gasoline tax is collected by the State Oil Inspector; the corporation franchise tax by the State Tax Commission; the inheritance tax by the Attorney-General and Treasurer, while the State property tax, under supervision of the Board of Equalization, is collected by the counties. Reform of that costly system, with its separate employees and other overhead expense, is advocated by Lieutenant-Governor Winter, who now is a Republican candidate for Governor. He would consolidate all these agencies, "except the Income Tax Department, which is an auditing bureau." Collection of the State property tax by the counties also would need to be retained. But with the setting up of one general supervisory if not collecting State agency, the saving would be tremendous. More efficient collection also should result.

A change of this nature is proposed by the legislative committee that worked out a State program of economy. It is one of nearly 30 proposals for betterment in State and local government operation, in addition to the two suggested amendments providing an executive State budget, centralized purchasing, fewer legislative employees and other changes that would cut down expenses.

These are questions on which all candidates for State offices should be expected to commit themselves definitely. The people of Missouri will want to know what to expect on this, the chief issue in the State campaign.

DEMOCRACY AND "BOSSISM."

FROM THE PHILADELPHIA RECORD.

FOR the first time thoughtful Americans are questioning democracy as an ideal. Dr. Clifton D. Gray, president of Bates College, in Maine, showed his understanding of current trends when he made that statement to the National Education Association, in convention at Atlantic City. The drift toward dictatorship is assuming, if not importance, a certain definiteness, which must be alarming to those who still believe in the ability of the common people to rule.

Why is there such a drift? Dr. Gray finds the answer in "bossism"—in political domination of cities and states by machines which do the thinking for the voter, which have killed interest in political affairs, which have tested and bargained the average citizen as unable to think or vote. It is up to educators to show that these writers are wrong, but their job will be a long uphill pull. It takes a lot of education to effect the doorbell-ringing tactics of the ward worker.

RENE BAZIN, NOTED
FRENCH NOVELIST, DIED

Member of Academy,
Sought to Correct 'Misrepresentation of His Country'

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21.—René Bazin, noted French novelist and member of the academy, died last night at the age of 77.

By many authorities M. Bazin considered one of France's chief novelists.

As a young man he became convinced France was misrepresented to the world by much of the fiction with a sex interest and he resolved to become a novelist of a different character.

Edmund Gosse, noted British critic, said his works might be recommended to English readers "without the possibility of a blunder." He was elected to the Académie in 1904. He made two trips to America, the last in 1912, but shunned the limelight and Americans met him.

One of his best-known books, "Sicile," published in 1893, which won the prize of the French Académie, among his other works were "L'Amour," "Le Guide de l'Étranger," "Mémoires d'une Vieillesse," and several volumes of travel.

MISSOURI ROAD LAW DEFINED

Rolling Holds Tractor and Semi-Trailer Are Two Vehicles.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 21.—A tractor and semi-trailer are considered as two vehicles, the Attorney-General's office held yesterday in an opinion. The law provides that no combination of vehicles coupled together shall exceed 40 feet in length and that not more than two vehicles shall be operated in combination. The measure was passed by the 1929
Legislature and goes into effect
Sept. 14, 1932.

Some trucking companies had contended that a tractor and semi-trailer constituted only one vehicle.
The opinion, written by C. A. Powell, an Assistant Attorney-General, was requested by John Mather,
chief counsel for the State Highway Department.

TO SEEK PAROLE FOR SLAYER IN PENITENTIARY 18 YEARS

Attorney to Contend Manlaughter Penalty, Since Limited by Law, Was Too Severe.

Application for parole for Joseph Douglas, a Negro, serving a term in Chester III, penitentiary for manslaughter is being prepared by Ray B. Hendricks, attorney, of East St. Louis. Douglas was convicted in 1914 and has served 18 years of a sentence. In 1927, however, the Legislature restricted the punishment for manslaughter to one to 14 years. PARIS, July 21.—The newspaper le Nouvell, an organ of Premier Joffre, expresses serious anxiety over political developments in Germany.

"The military coup d'état," the newspaper says, "is one of the latest events of recent years. If German democracy does not react to these developments, we will have before us a future full of threats."

Statement

JULIUS H. BARNES

Chairman of the Board of Directors

Missouri State Life Insurance Company

THE eighty million life insurance policies in force in the United States afford striking illustration of the earnest effort which the American people make to protect themselves and their families against misfortune

In my estimate of duty there is none more sacred than that which devolves upon those who administer the affairs of life insurance companies, to exercise the wisest of courage, the most sterling integrity and the greatest of thoughtful and conscientious care to see that the purposes of the trust placed in their hands are fully and faithfully protected.

To me it is a privilege, yet a sobering responsibility, to be one of those upon whom this obligation rests. The Missouri State Life Insurance Company is one of the great financial institutions of the west. Many people have intrusted to it their protection against the future. It will be my constant purpose and effort to conserve and faithfully to carry out that trust.

There is to me inspiration for such undertaking in the confidence I have in the future of our country and its institutions. Some people have been bewildered, timid and hesitant. That will pass. The courage and resourcefulness which have been characteristic of our people from pioneer days will again become the dominant spirit of our national life.

When we return to happier, more prosperous times, as we shall return, many millions of people will have been helped through the trying days by the great institution of life insurance. And life insurance will go forward to greater development, to larger and broader usefulness.

It is a great personal pleasure now to be associated with the men who have carried the Missouri State Life Insurance Company through the new and difficult problems of difficult times. I shall be proud to be associated with them in the great future development and success of the company, which happier times cannot fail to bring.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN.

NOT unlike the excited eye-witness of a murder, the historians of July, 1914, disagree both in their testimony and in their conclusions. The British and the French talk too much of the part played by the German determination to violate the neutrality of Belgium, a detail thoroughly irrelevant to the origin and the issues of the conflict. The Germans disclose a desire to "rewrite" Russian history in the spirit of the present claims of innocence made by Wilhelmstrasse. The readers of Emil Ludwig's July 1914 would be disappointed to learn that some of the Russian "discoveries" of their favorite author are based on his failure to distinguish between two brothers Maklakoff in his fantastic description of the war conference in Czarokole-Seo.

He introduces the Russian Minister of the Interior Nicholas Maklakoff as a "forceful orator," a "panther," and a "former leader of the liberals" who, according to him, practically "forced" the Czar of Russia to sign the order of general mobilization.

It happens that Nicholas Maklakoff, a man of extremely conservative leanings and bitterly opposed to the war, had a brother by the name of Vasily Maklakoff, who although not quite a "panther," was nevertheless a forceful orator, a lawyer of distinction and a leader of the opposition up to the very moment of the revolution of 1917. Neither of the brothers exercised the slightest influence on the Czar's decisions. Nicholas Maklakoff was never asked to express his opinion on military matters, Vasily Maklakoff was naturally never admitted to the palace. The famous "Maklakoff speech" quoted by Ludwig belongs to the realm of pure imagination, the author being too lazy to check up on names and data.

NOBODY has written an unbiased account of the last week of the Old World. I doubt that any one ever will. The information possessed by me and gathered both before and during the war, leads me to believe in the conclusiveness of three facts only:

1. The conflict was caused by the Anglo-German rivalry for the economic supremacy of the world and by the combined efforts of the military oligues in Berlin, Vienna, Paris, London and St. Petersburg. Had it not been for the assassination of the Archduke Franz-Ferdinand, another pretext of equally absurd cynicism, would have been chosen by the military oligues as the cause of war. Kaiser Wilhelm naturally never intended to "have it over with" before the completion of the Russian Military Program in 1917.

2. Nicholas II did all in his power to prevent the outbreak of hostilities, finding but little, if any, support for his conciliatory efforts among his advisers of the Russian Foreign Office and the Russian General Staff.

3. Up to the stroke of midnight, July 31, 1914, the British Government could have averted the catastrophe, had it declared its readiness to stand by France and Russia. A simple declaration made to that effect by Herbert Asquith or Sir Edward Grey would have pacified even the most belligerent Junkers in Berlin. The "Belgian alibi," advanced by the British Government three days later, made up in human appeal what it lacked in cool logic. The British Empire went to war not because of its holy respect for the inviolability of international treaties but on account of its bitter feelings toward Germany. Were Herbert Asquith, less of a lawyer and more of an outspoken humanitarian, no war would have been declared by Germany on Aug. 1, 1914.

All other "ifs" exploited by the historians of 1914 are fanciful and meaningless. We might just as well go back to 1912 and ask ourselves what would have happened to the world if the Republican National Convention in Chicago had nominated Roosevelt instead of Taft. Possibly, the United States would have joined the Allies on May 8, 1918, the morning after the sinking of the Lusitania; more likely, however, Mr. Roosevelt would have recalled the American Ambassador to the Court of St. James's long before that date, as a protest against British interference with the east-bound movements of American merchant ships.

MY mother-in-law and my wife were spending the summer of 1914 in London, staying in Marlborough House with the former's sister, Dorothea, and her husband, Lord Dorothea. They refused to join me aboard the Oriental Express. They said there was going to be no war; they had it from the "most reliable source." I left alone on July 25, having wired the commander-in-chief of the Black Sea Fleet to be met by a cruiser in the Rumanian port of Constanta.

On my way through Austria I saw crowds of recruits storming the stations and the men and women pulling down the shades in my compartment. By the time we reached Vienna, a doubt arose whether the Oriental Express would be allowed to proceed. After hours of waiting and negotiating, it was decided that we should be taken as far as the Rumanian border. From there on, I went about several miles to reach the special train prepared for me by the Rumanian Government. Approaching Constanta, I recognized from the distance the mast of my former flagship Almaz, name omitted in 1906 but a delightful one

LAST CHAPTER OF 'Cocktail Killing'

Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney Acquitted in London on Charge of Murdering the Son of an English Banker After Drinking Party in Her Apartment.

THERE were sounds of revelry emanating from the flat of Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney in Williams Mews, London, counterpart to New York's Greenwich Village. "Cocktail party," thought the neighbors, and being accustomed to such celebrations paid no further attention. Until there were loud cries and an unusual commotion, followed by several shots. A woman screamed. When the police arrived they found the body of Thomas William Scott Stephen lying on the stairs, shot.

As a result of the shooting Mrs. Barney, 27 years old, daughter of Sir John and Lady Mullins and wife of John Sterling Barney, an American singer, was accused of the murder of Stephen, 35-year-old son of a London banker. But Mrs. Barney denied she deliberately murdered him; Stephen had been shot, she said, when he attempted to disarm her after she threatened suicide. There was a trial, the sensation of London—and the jury accepted Mrs. Barney's story and acquitted her.

The sensation of the trial lay in the revelation of the events that had preceded the killing, the romance of Mrs. Barney and Stephen, the behavior of Mrs. Barney, and the high social position of the principals.

How the drama really began back in 1912, when Barney came to London from New York. He had something in the way of a reputation as a singer on the Continent, as he was one of a group known as "The Three New Yorkers" who had appeared in Wagner's operas at the Metropolitan.

Through their stage affiliations Barney and Miss Mullins met. They became interested in each other, which at the time occasioned comment, since Miss Mullins was so-called known, and her sister, Avril, was the wife of Prince George Imperator, a former officer of the Grenadier Guards. The friendship of the two culminated in marriage—at first apparently a happy marriage.

Before long, however, there were signs of depression, which ended with a separation. Barney had been very unpleasant during their life together, she said, during the trial, and she had gone so far as to abuse her. So when, after they separated, he returned to America, she met Stephen, his kindness and attention soon awakened love. She took the flat in Williams Mews, and, she related hesitantly, Stephen lived with her. The outcome of the relationship, which Mrs. Barney kept from her parents, was Stephen's death.

When a police inspector arrived at the flat after the killing, he said he found next to the body on the stairs a small five-shot pistol from which two shots had been fired. There was no sign of a struggle, and Mrs. Barney was sitting on a lounge, only partly dressed, and apparently dazed.

The inspector asked her how the shooting happened, he said, and in reply she began to shout at him, ordered him out of the flat. He reasoned with her until she became calm again, and she admitted it was her revolver. But when again asked for an explanation, she flew into a rage.

CHAPTER FORTY-FOUR

It was Mabel who found the announcement in the papers that Donn had won the first prize in the Tremont exhibition with his portrait, "The Girl With the Comb." Buried in an inside page, it consisted of only a few paragraphs with Farrell's name heading the list of winners.

Julie read it bewildered, then once more joyfully. Carefully she took out the item and put it in her purse. The information in the story was meager, only mentioning the names of the artists who had won prizes, the amount of the first prize, five hundred dollars, and the address of the gallery where the pictures could be seen.

It was early yet, she was thinking, as she shut the paper. She would go to the Tremont galleries, see the portrait, and be back at the Golden Slipper later. She had seen the portrait the last time when it had been put half covered, and she wanted to see it finished, hanging. Wanted to see what Donn had made of her. First prize—how happy he would be. Five hundred dollars was money.

It was a blow to her that Angela should share the glory with her. Instead of her. A comfort though, that she had sat for the picture, that she was "the girl with the comb," that his first recognition had come through her, that he had painted her, not Angela.

Mabel didn't want to go, so she stayed alone, and twice more in the subway took out the notice and read it although she had memorized it thoroughly at the house before she started. "Donn's portrait," "The Girl With the Comb," took the first prize at the exhibition of paintings at the Tremont Galleries—

The Girl With the Comb—That was she, Julie Brett. Donn must have finished the painting. She had been watching during his vacation, watching her only had two other pictures, "The Girl With the Comb," took the first prize at the exhibition of paintings at the Tremont Galleries—

MR. CARR: Will you print a list of stories, books that you think are and appropriate for boys? PUZZLED.

THE prize winner is over in the corner, she heard someone behind her say, and she moved off quickly to the corner which had been indicated, and there were more people were waiting there. She couldn't get close to the picture, but she could see it well enough from where she was.

Here, for it was herself, Donn at the likeness perfect. A difference, Julie than Mabel had painted, a Julie who was sitting on a stool combing her hair, her head tilted back. A Julie wearing a deep pink cotton skirt and a white blouse. The blouse was half off one of the shoulders, and the Donna had painted was firm and white, and glowing.

Tears came to her eyes, and she then fell unheeded on her knees, tasted the salt of them on her lips.

She was good—this picture of Donna. More than good. It had feeling, and spirit. It lived. The lamp running through the soft hair, a broken comb. You saw the movement of her hand, as she was thinking of someone, for the dreaminess of her face told that. You knew she was lazy about the combing of her hair, for she was thinking of other things, a man.

The lighting on the picture was good. It brought out the glint of the brown hair, the high-lights of the pale face. And in the right corner Donna's name was written in small black letters.

There were murmurs of approval from the onlookers. Julie heard one, was pleased as she dabbed her tears away. Some of the people were moving away from the picture, so she edged up until her fingers rested on it, still looking up at the picture.

"Fine piece of work," a man behind her was saying, to another man. "This Farrell ought to go."

"Know him?" The other man asked. Julie was swelling with pride.

Let him today. A mere boy. Didn't know yet what he's done. Rather bewildered about it. I tell you it's a fine piece of work. I wish to God I had done something good."

"You have, Lester. Don't be a fool about the picture." "I haven't, and I admit it. But Farrell does another thing as good as this, I'll be disappointed. It's only once in a lifetime that you can do something like this."

ESTER. . . Lester, where had she heard that name before? Then Julie remembered. Her grandfather was a well-known artist. Her grandfather had a study of his at Bretwood. She stole a look at the man who had been talking. Vaguely familiar. Although she had never seen Lester himself, she had seen photographs of him. Yes, yes, was Jan Lester, and he was

Behind the Screens

Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD, July 17.

THESE seats of the mighty at the movie pinnacle would be more comfortable if it weren't for the continual crowding from below. The star walks on the set and he is king, but he doesn't know exactly which one of the many subjects who do him cinematic service as extras or minor characters is a potential pretender to his throne.

When John Gilbert was making the film "The Merry Widow" one obscure extra in the crowd was Clark Gable. Gable wasn't alone in sending Jack to the skies, but he helped, for the rough and menacing here Clark portrays has nothing in common with the ultra-romantic hero who caused titters when Gilbert appeared in "His Glorious Night."

THEN last year came "The Secret Six." In that picture the promising Mr. Gable already had a foot planted firmly on the ladder to his astounding popularity. He had been discovered by the fans, and the future looked as rosy as it has turned out to be.

But scarcely anyone will remember the young gangster who was killed early in the picture. Had the part been larger, the actor who played it might have been famous long before now. That was Ralph Bellamy.

Bellamy is not crowding Gable for his laurels. His certainly is not "another Gable." But he is climbing as surely and more steadily because he has not been ballyhooed and because he is a fine actor.

In all Bellamy's characterizations to date there has been one quality that makes them unforgettable—force. In "Surrender" he played a highly unsympathetic role and won sympathy because of that quality.

Because of it also, he was able to present an unique picture of a juvenile court judge in "Young America," one of his best characterizations because it was as far as possible from the usual movie conception of a judge.

Force, a commanding personality, a pleasant smile or a sneer as the situation demands, put him in the forefront of the new school of movie heroes.

ORDER TO BAN BONUS FORC TEMPORARILY RESCINDED

District of Columbia Commissioners Delay in Order to Obtain Legal Ruling Concerning Their Procedure.

DEADLINE WAS SET FOR MIDNIGHT

Leaders of Washington Campers Say Veterans Won't Obey Federal Order Until New Quarters Are Provided.

The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 22.—The District of Columbia commissioners this afternoon rescinded temporarily their order requiring evacuation of the bonus army from Government and public park property. The commissioners' action was taken to obtain several legal rulings necessary to carry out the order to vacate. The first deadline was set for midnight tonight.

The veterans, however, will be required to return National Guard units and field kitchens by Aug. 1. By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, July 22.—Head-on collision between the police and the Bonus Expeditionary Force within the next 24 hours appeared inevitable today. The Federal authorities were standing pat in their order that the unemployed veterans must start evacuating Government property now occupied by them by midnight tonight, while the veterans' leaders insisted they would not leave voluntarily until provided with new quarters.

The area ordered cleared by tonight is in Washington's so-called "dormitory" region, comprising a block along Pennsylvania avenue, about midway between the Capitol and the White House, where buildings have been wrecked to make way for new Government structures. About 1600 persons, including many women and children, are encamped there. Most of them are from Southern states, although Wisconsin, Montana and Nebraska are represented.

Orders for the evacuation of this similar areas were received by the District of Columbia Commissioners yesterday afternoon from the Treasury Department, which refused anxiety to resume wrecking and building operations, which were suspended several weeks before the bonus marchers arrived.

Parks Ordered Cleared. Later in the day a similar order was received from Col. U. S. Grant, Director of Public Buildings and Parks, who instructed that all public parks and playgrounds now occupied by the veterans must be cleared by midnight of Aug. 4. This order affects the main veteran camp beside the Anacostia river, where about 8000 persons are occupying makeshift domiciles. The commissioners further added that the veterans would not be permitted to occupy privately owned quarters until these had been officially pronounced sanitary and free from fire hazards. While no mention was made of the White House in connection with the order, it was considered significant that they originated with officials who are all appointees of the President.

The first comment of Walter W. Waters, commanding the main body of veterans, was the following: "They can issue orders, but I see how they are going to force them."

Statement by Waters. Today, after conferring with unit commanders of the affected groups, Waters issued a statement in which he declared if the police persisted in their determination to remove the homeless veterans from the downtown area tonight, they will use to evict them bodily, one by one. However, in the same statement he said the men would resort to passive resistance and that forcible resistance would not be tolerated.

The commander charged that the purpose of the evacuation order was to compel the campers to leave Washington, and added that the hour set for moving had been advanced in order to make it impossible for the affected persons to find new quarters. The original order gave us until
